JURISDICTION OF THE COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS

RULES OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

RULE X

ESTABLISHMENT AND JURISDICTION OF STANDING COMMITTEES

THE COMMITTEES AND THEIR JURISDICTION

1. There shall be in the House the following standing committees, each of which shall have the jurisdiction and related functions assigned to it by this clause and clauses 2, 3, and 4; and all bills, resolutions, and other matters relating to subjects within the jurisdiction of any standing committee as listed in this clause shall (in accordance with and subject to clause 5) be referred to such committees, as follows:

* * * * * * *

(v) Committee on Ways and Means.

(1) Customs, collection districts, and ports of entry and delivery.

(2) Reciprocal trade agreements.

(3) Revenue measures generally.

(4) Revenue measures relating to the insular possessions.

(5) The bonded debt of the United States (subject to the last sentence of clause 4(g) of this rule).

(6) The deposit of public moneys.

(7) Transportation of dutiable goods.

(8) Tax exempt foundations and charitable trusts.

(9) National Social Security, except (A) health care and facilities programs that are supported from general revenues as opposed to payroll deductions and (B) work incentive programs.

NOTE. As a select committee the Committee on Ways and Means dates from 1789. It was made a standing committee in 1802. Originally it considered both revenue and appropriations, but in 1865 the appropriation bills were given to the Committee on Appropriations, and certain other bills to what is now the Committee on Banking, Finance, and Urban Affairs. The subject of recesses and final adjournments, formerly within the jurisdiction of this committee was, under the Reorganization Act of 1946, transferred to the Committee on Rules.

SUMMARIES OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS REPORTED BY COMMITTEE—IN NUMERICAL ORDER

H.R. 2 (Mr. Hawkins with cosponsors); House sustained Presidential Veto June 14, 1989.

H.R. 2, the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1989, was referred to the Education and Labor Committee on Jan. 3, 1989. The Committee on Education and Labor reported the bill (amended) to the House on Mar. 20, 1989. The House passed H.R. 2 (amended) on Mar. 23, 1989. On Apr. 12, 1989, the Senate passed the bill in lieu of S. 4 with an amendment. As approved by the Senate, the bill contained several provisions within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means; the Speaker appointed members of the committee as conferees. On May 8, 1989, the conference report was filed. The conference report was adopted in the House on May 11, 1989, and in the Senate on May 17, 1989. The President vetoed H.R. 2 on June 14, 1989. On June 14, 1989, the House sustained the President's veto.

The Senate amendment included the following provisions under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means: adjustment of the earned income tax credit to help working poor families (sec. 109), repeal or substantial modification of sec. 89 of the Internal Revenue Code (sec. 115), increase the Social Security earnings test limitation (sec. 201), phase out and eliminate the earnings test by the year 2000 (sec. 202), eliminate certain retroactive Social Security benefits (sec. 203), and review of Medicare catastrophic coverage (sec. 204). All provisions under the committee's jurisdiction were dropped in conference.

H.R. 3 (Mr. Hawkins with cosponsors); passed Senate Apr. 24, 1990. (See also H.R. 3299, 5835.)

H.R. 3, the Early Childhood Development and Education Act of 1989, was introduced Jan. 3, 1989, and referred to the Committee on Education and Labor. The Committee on Education and Labor reported the bill (amended) to the House on July 27, 1989. H.R. 3 as reported contained provisions of jurisdictional concern to the Committee on Ways and Means and on July 27, 1989, the bill was sequentially referred to the committee. The Committee on Ways and Means reported the bill (amended) to the House on Sept. 12, 1989. The House passed H.R. 3 (amended) on Mar. 29, 1990. On Apr. 24, 1990, the Senate passed the bill with an amendment by unanimous consent, striking all after the enacting clause and substituting the language of S. 5 amended. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees. The conferees met on June 7 and 14, 1990, but did not file a conference report. For further action see H.R. 5835 for a summary of related issues that were enacted into law as part of that bill.

Different versions of H.R. 3 were reported by the Committee on Ways and Means and the Committee on Education and Labor (see H.Rept. 101-190, pts. 1 and 2). Prior to floor consideration of H.R. 3, the House leadership proposed a revised version of the bill that merged elements of each committee's reported bill. This revised bill was offered as an amendment during consideration of H.R. 3 and was adopted. A summary of the House-passed bill follows.

Title I of the bill would amend the Head Start program to increase funds for Head Start and expand income eligibility.

Title II of the bill would authorize funds through the Department of Education to eligible States and local education agencies to assist in the establishment or expansion of early childhood development programs for 4-years-olds and school-based child care for older children.

Title III of the bill would authorize grants for child care and tax credits to help families offset the costs of child care.

With respect to grants, the bill would increase the entitlement ceiling for the title XX social security block grant by $450 million for fiscal year 1991, $550 million for fiscal year 1992, $600 million for fiscal years 1993 and 1994, and $700 million for fiscal year 1995 and subsequent fiscal years. These additional funds would be earmarked for child care services. Provision is made for assuring that child care services meet applicable State child care standards and that providers participate in annual training activities. The bill also incorporates the Senate-passed language establishing rules for the funding of sectarian child care. States would be required to design the title XX child care program to maximize parental choice.

With respect to tax credits, the bill would increase the amount of the earned income tax credit and adjust it for family size, effective for taxable years beginning after Dec. 31, 1990. A family with one child would be eligible for a credit equal to 17 percent of the first $7,150 of earned income in 1991 (based on current inflation projections). The credit would be phased out at a rate of 12 percent of the amount of adjusted gross income (or, if greater, earned income) that exceeds $11,190 (based on current inflation projections). For families with two children, the credit percentage would equal 21 percent, and the phaseout percentage would equal 15 percent; for families with three or more children, the credit percentage would equal 25 percent, and the phaseout percentage would equal 18 percent. As under current law, the income limitations for the credit would be indexed for inflation.

The bill would also provide a supplemental "young child" credit for families with any child under the age of 6. This supplemental credit amount would be available in addition to the EITC amount determined by family size. In 1991, the supplemental young child credit would be calculated as 6 percent of the first $7,150 of earned income (based on current inflation projections) with the maximum credit projected to be $430.

To offset the cost of the provisions of title III, the bill would phase out the dependent care tax credit and the exclusion for employer-provided dependent care assistance between $70,000 and $90,000 of adjusted gross income. It would also extend and make permanent the telephone excise tax, which under current law expires after 1990.

Title IV of the bill would authorize grants to States for coordination, administration, information, standards-setting, enforcement and related activities by State and local governments, advisory councils and others.

Title V of the bill authorizes grants to businesses to provide child care services.

Title VI of the bill authorizes grants to eligible States to assist them in improving State child care standards.

A summary of the Senate-passed version of H.R. 3 follows.

Title I of the bill would authorize funds for child care services, quality improvements, activities to increase the availability of child care, a standards improvement incentive grant program, and a child care liability risk retention group.

Title II of the bill would create a tax credit for certain health insurance premium costs, make the independent care tax credit and health insurance premium credit refundable, and create a supplemental earned income credit for families with young children. The title would also amend employee benefit nondiscrimination rules, and would extend the telephone excise tax.

Title III of the bill included a number of provisions that would amend the Social Security Act.

Title IV of the bill included sense of the Congress language regarding the Higher Education Act, and a provision that would establish a penalty for desecrating any U.S. flag.

H.R. 1154 (Mr. Gibbons with cosponsors); reported to House July 23, 1990.

H.R. 1154, the Semiautomatic Assault Weapon Import Control Act of 1990, was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on July 23, 1990. A summary of the bill as reported follows.

Sec. 1 of H.R. 1154 establishes a general import prohibition on semiautomatic assault rifles, semiautomatic assault pistols, and large-capacity magazines and ammunition belts.

Sec. 2 defines 43 specific models of rifles and five models of pistols which are subject to the import prohibition established in sec. 1. It also defines large-capacity magazines and large-capacity ammunition belts as those having a capacity greater than 7 rounds.

Sec. 3 requires the Secretary of the Treasury, in consultation with the Attorney General, to perform a study and report to Congress on the use of semiautomatic assault weapons in crime.

On Sept. 24, 1990, the Committee on Rules reported H.Res. 471, the rule providing for the consideration of H.R. 4225, the "Restricted Weapons Act of 1990." This rule incorporated H.R. 1154 as title II of H.R. 4225, a more comprehensive assault weapons prohibition bill reported by the Committee on the Judiciary.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 4225 was pending on the House calendar.

H.R. 1233 (Mr. Gibbons with cosponsors); reported to House July 12, 1989. (See also H.R. 1594, 3299.)

H.R. 1233, the Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery Expansion Act of 1989, was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on July 12, 1989, containing trade and related measures to improve the operation and effectiveness of the Caribbean Basin Initiative (CBI) program. On July 25, 1989, the committee approved inclusion of H.R. 1233, as amended, in title X, subtitle E, of H.R. 3299, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989. On October 5, 1989, H.R. 3299 passed the House with an amendment under a self-executing rule to eliminate the textile and apparel and footwear provisions in sec. 10412. The bill passed the Senate as amended on Oct. 13, 1989. The conference report did not include the provisions in title X, subtitle E. Sec. 10426 on ethanol was included as an amendment by the Senate to H.R. 3275, passed by both Houses on Nov. 22, 1989 (see H.R. 3275). A summary of the provisions passed by the House as title X, subtitle E, of H.R. 3299 follows:

SUBTITLE E. CARIBBEAN BASIN ECONOMIC RECOVERY

PART 1. SHORT TITLE AND FINDINGS

PART 2. AMENDMENTS TO THE CARIBBEAN BASIN ECONOMIC RECOVERY ACT AND RELATED PROVISIONS

Sec. 10411 repeals the Sept. 30, 1995, termination date on duty-free treatment under the CBI.

Sec. 10412 grants 50 percent duty reductions on imports of handbags, luggage, flat goods, work gloves, and leather wearing apparel from CBI countries currently exempt from duty-free treatment.

Sec. 10413 includes internationally recognized worker rights conditions for the designation of CBI countries that are consistent with the existing standards under the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) program, and requires the President to conduct a biennial review of CBI eligible countries based on all statutory designation criteria.

Sec. 10414 requires a report by the President to the Congress every 3 years on the operation of the CBI program.

Sec. 10415 expresses the sense of the Congress on the need for special efforts to improve the ability of the Eastern Caribbean countries and Belize to benefit from the CBI.

Sec. 10421 establishes a guaranteed minimum floor at the 1989 level for sugar imports from CBI countries under the U.S. sugar quota program, requires the reallocation of unused and suspended or terminated sugar quotas to CBI countries, and authorizes trade agreement compensation if these actions violate U.S. international obligations.

Sec. 10422 increases the duty-free tourist allowance for U.S. residents returning from CBI countries from $400 to $600 and by 1 additional liter of alcoholic beverages if produced in the region, and increases the duty-free allowance for tourists returning from U.S. insular possessions from $800 to $1,200.

Sec. 10423 grants duty-free and quota-free treatment to articles assembled or processed in CBI countries wholly of U.S. components or ingredients, except water.

Sec. 10424 authorizes the President to proclaim, effective Jan. 1, 1991, new rules for determining the origin of articles for duty-free CBI treatment, subject to consultation and reporting requirements and a 90-day congressional layover period.

Sec. 10425 creates an exception to the general rule for cumulation of imports to determine material injury to domestic industries in antidumping and countervailing duty investigations if CBI imports are the subject of the investigation.

Sec. 10426 establishes several different criteria for the duty-free treatment of ethanol imports from CBI countries and U.S. insular possessions.

Sec. 10427 amends the GSP statute to specifically require "substantial transformation" of an eligible article in a beneficiary developing country as a condition for duty-free treatment, in conformity with the existing CBI requirement.

PART 3. SCHOLARSHIP ASSISTANCE AND TOURISM PROMOTION

Sec. 10431 requires the Agency for International Development to establish, in cooperation with States and the private sector, a program of scholarship assistance for students from CBI countries to study in the United States in subject areas critical to the development needs of their countries. The Federal share would be funded under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

Sec. 10432 expresses the sense of the Congress that U.S. Government agencies should assign a high priority to projects that promote tourism in the Caribbean, and requires the Secretary of Commerce to complete a study on tourism development strategies for the region.

Sec. 10433 requires the U.S. Customs Service to carry out preclearance operations during fiscal years 1990 and 1991 at a site in the Caribbean appropriate for testing the extent that preclearance operations can assist in tourism development. The Commissioner must report to the Congress on the results of the pilot program.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 1233 was pending on the House calendar.

H.R. 1278 (Mr. Gonzalez with cosponsors); Public Law 101-73; app. Aug. 9, 1989.

H.R. 1278, the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989, was referred to the Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee on Mar. 6, 1989, and on May 16, 1989, was reported (amended); subsequent supplemental reports were filed on June 1 and June 8, 1989. H.R. 1278 was referred jointly to the Judiciary and Ways and Means Committees on May 16, 1989. The Ways and Means Committee reported the bill (amended) on May 22, 1989; the bill was referred jointly to the Government Operations and Rules Committees. On June 1, 1989, the Rules Committee reported the bill and the Judiciary Committee reported the bill (amended). The Government Operations Committee reported the bill on June 2, 1989. H.R. 1278 passed the House (amended) on June 15, 1989; passed the Senate (amended) on June 21, 1989. The Senate insisted on its amendment and asked for a conference on June 21, 1989. The House disagreed with the Senate amendment and agreed to a conference on June 22, 1989. The conference report was filed on Aug. 1, 1989. The House agreed to the conference report on Aug. 3, 1989; the Senate ruled the conference report out of order insisting on its amendment and asked for a further conference which the House agreed to while insisting on its disagreement to the Senate amendment. On Aug. 4, 1989, the conference report was filed and agreed to by the Senate; the House agreed on Aug. 5, 1989. The President signed H.R. 1278 into law on Aug. 9, 1989, as Public Law 101-73.

A summary of title XIV, which contains the tax-related provisions of the act, follows:

1. Early termination of special reorganization rules for financial institutions

The act repeals the three special tax provisions contained in the Internal Revenue Code to assist financially troubled financial institutions.

2. Tax exemption for the Resolution Funding Corporation (REFCORP) and the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC)

The act provides an exemption from Federal income tax for the REFCORP and the RTC in the Internal Revenue Code.

3. Annual report on financial institution transactions in which Federal financial assistance is provided

The act requires the Department of the Treasury to submit annual reports to the House Committee on Ways and Means and the Senate Committee on Finance regarding financial institution transactions involving Federal financial assistance, the aggregate amount of assistance provided and tax benefits available resulting from such transactions, as well as the amount of Federal financial assistance and tax benefits which are attributable to transactions in prior years.

4. Annual study of the relationship between public debt and activities of Government-sponsored enterprises

The act requires the Department of the Treasury to conduct two annual studies to assess the financial safety and soundness of the activities of Government-sponsored enterprises and the impact of their operations on Federal borrowings, and report the result of the study to the tax-writing committees.

DEBT MANAGEMENT PROVISIONS

The act requires the funding of the Resolution Funding Corporation (REFCORP) to be fully on-budget borrowing from the Treasury Department with respect to $18.8 billion of financing in fiscal year 1989 and to be off-budget from the issuance of long-term bonds with respect to $30 billion in financing in fiscal years 1990 and 1991.

H.R. 1465 (Mr. Jones with cosponsors); Public Law 101-380; app. Aug. 20, 1990.

H.R. 1465, the Oil Pollution Act of 1990, was introduced and referred to the Committees on Foreign Affairs, Interior and Insular Affairs, Merchant Marine and Fisheries, Public Works and Transportation, and Science, Space and Technology on Mar. 16, 1989. The bill was reported as follows: (amended) by the Committees on Merchant Marine and Fisheries and Public Works and Transportation on Sept. 18, 1989, (amended) by the the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology on Sept. 20, 1989, and supplemental reports by the Committees on Public Works and Transportation on Oct. 3, 1989, and Merchant Marine and Fisheries on Oct. 4, 1989. H.R. 1465 passed the House (amended) on Nov. 9, 1989; the Senate passed the bill substituting the language of S. 686 (amended) on Nov. 19, 1989. As approved by the House and Senate, H.R. 1465 contained provisions within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means; the Speaker appointed members of the committee as conferees. The conference report was filed on Aug. 1, 1990. The Senate passed the conference report on Aug. 2, 1990; the House on Aug. 4, 1990. The President signed H.R. 1465 into law on Aug. 20, 1990, as Public Law 101-380.

The conference provisions of principal concern to the Committee on Ways and Means related to the use of the Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund in sec. 9509 of the Internal Revenue Code. The conferees agreed to additional expenditure purposes for the fund and to increase the liability-per-incident limits on expenditures. The conferees also authorized the deposit of certain additional amounts (including amounts in the Trans-Alaska Pipeline Liability Fund) in the fund.

H.R. 1594 (Mr. Gibbons with cosponsors); Public Law 101-382; app. Aug. 20, 1990. (See also H.R. 1233, 4328.)

H.R. 1594, the Customs and Trade Act of 1990, was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on June 21, 1989. On Sept. 7, 1989, the bill passed the House (amended). The Senate passed H.R. 1594 (amended) on Apr. 24, 1990. The conference report was filed on July 30, 1990. The conference report was approved by the Senate on July 31, 1990, and by the House on Aug. 4, 1990. The President signed H.R. 1594 into law on Aug. 20, 1990, as Public Law 101-382. A summary of the act follows.

TITLE I—TRADE AGENCY AUTHORIZATIONS, CUSTOMS USER FEES, AND OTHER PROVISIONS

SUBTITLE A—TRADE AGENCY AUTHORIZATIONS FOR FISCAL YEARS 1991 AND 1992

Sec. 101. United States International Trade Commission

Sec. 101 amends the Tariff Act of 1930 to provide an authorization of appropriations of $41,170,000 for FY 1991 and $44,052,000 for FY 1992 for the U.S. International Trade Commission. Of the amount authorized, not more than $2,500 may be used for reception and entertainment expenses, subject to the approval of the Chairman.

Sec. 102. United States Customs Service

Sec. 102 provides a statutory funding floor for commercial operations and a ceiling on noncommercial (enforcement) operations; the section authorizes a maximum of $516,217,000 in fiscal year 1991 and a maximum of $542,019,000 in fiscal year 1992 for salaries and expenses in noncommercial operations; for salaries and expenses incurred in commercial operations, the section authorizes appropriations of no less than $672,021,000 in fiscal year 1991 and no less than $705,793,000 for fiscal year 1992. For operations and maintenance of the Air Interdiction Program, the section authorizes $143,047,000 for fiscal year 1991 and $150,199,000 for fiscal year 1992.

Sec. 103. Office of the U.S. Trade Representative

Sec. 103 authorizes 2 year appropriations to the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative of $23,250,000 for fiscal year 1991 and $21,077,000 for fiscal year 1992, including $2,050,000 each year for the U.S. share of estimated expenses of Chapter 19 binational review panels under the United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement.

SUBTITLE B—CUSTOMS USER FEES

Sec. 111. Customs user fees

Sec. 111 reauthorizes customs user fees for fiscal year 1991 and provides a new fee structure for merchandise processing fees that differentiate between entries or releases of merchandise that are formally entered and those that are informally entered. The section provides a capped fee for each formal entry and a three-tiered flat rate fee for each entry of merchandise informally entered. The amount of the user fee will depend upon whether the fee is filed manually or electronically. The section also establishes a special reimbursement rule for air courier facilities and other reimbursable facilities.

For formal entries, the section provides a fee of 0.17 percent subject to a maximum of $400 and a minimum of $21, except that an additional $3 is assessed on each entry if filed manually.

For informal entries (under $1,250), the section provides the following fee schedule: $2 for automated, non-Customs-prepared informal entries; $5 for manual, non-Customs-prepared informal entries; $8 for Customs-prepared informal entries.

In lieu of the above, air courier facilities and other reimbursable facilities would be subject to a reimbursement for Customs' processing costs to be collected at a rate of twice the assessment currently applied at courier hubs. Also, the industry's current 80 percent offset would be eliminated.

Sec. 111 also authorizes the Commissioner of Customs to use any surplus from the schedule of flat-rate fees (the "COBRA fees") to hire full- and part-time personnel, buy equipment, or satisfy other direct expenses necessary to provide service directly to the payers of the fee; a $30 million reserve of the surplus is required to maintain staffing levels equal to those existing in the prior year in the event customs collections are reduced. Other provisions include enforcement authority, treatment of railroad cars and agriculture products processed and packed in foreign trade zones.

Sec. 112. Exemption of Israeli products from certain user fees

Sec. 112 exempts products of Israel from the customs merchandise processing fee if the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative determines that the Government of Israel has provided reciprocal concessions in exchange for the exemption.

Sec. 113. Customs Service administration

Sec. 113 requires the General Accounting Office (GAO) to report within 180 days to the committees on the costs incurred by the Customs Service in conducting commercial operations, including merchandise processing costs and fee calculations. The section also requires changes to Customs' cost accounting systems, new labor distribution surveys, annual fee recalculations and an explanation of the methodology used to compute the fee.

Sec. 114. GAO report on entries by mail

Sec. 114 requires a GAO report to the Committees on the extent to which fees are being collected on entries by mail.

Sec. 115. Effective date

Sec. 115 provides an effective date of Oct. 1, 1990, for the provisions of subtitle B, except the amendment regarding treatment of railroad cars is effective July 7, 1986. Sec. 115(b) provides that the enforcement authority and Israeli exemption are effective on the date of enactment.

SUBTITLE C–MISCELLANEOUS CUSTOMS PROVISIONS

Sec. 121. Customs forfeiture fund

Sec. 121 requires the Customs Forfeiture Fund Annual Report to include a complete set of audited financial statements for the previous fiscal year consistent with the requirements of the Comptroller General.

Sec. 121 also requires Customs to deposit all forfeited cash into the fund, and provides the necessary authority for associated asset sharing payments involving forfeited cash and the proceeds of sales of forfeited seized property to be made from the fund.

Sec. 121 authorizes $20 million for discretionary purposes of the fund, of which $14,855,000 for FY 1991 and $15,598,000 for FY 1992 are available to the Customs Service.

Sec. 122. Increase in value subject to administrative forfeiture; processing of money seized under the customs laws

Sec. 122 increases from $100,000 to $500,000 the value of seized conveyances, merchandise, or baggage subject to summary (administrative) forfeiture proceedings in uncontested cases. Sec. 122 also removes the $100,000 limit on administrative forfeiture proceedings in uncontested cash seizure cases. The Customs Service is required to report to Congress annually on delays in processing uncontested cash cases over 120 days.

Sec. 123. Annual national trade and customs law violation estimates and enforcement strategy

Sec. 123(a) requires the Customs Service to submit annually to the House Committee on Ways and Means and Senate Committee on Finance a report estimating, for the coming fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter, the likelihood of violations of trade, customs, and illegal drug laws enforced by Customs, and the relative threat of these violations among Customs ports and regions. The Commissioner of Customs is directed to compile a list of applicable statutes in consultation with the committees. Under sec. 123(c), the Commissioner is directed to develop and submit to the committees a nationally uniform enforcement strategy based on the threat assessment. The required reports are confidential and restricted to designated employees of Customs and the committees.

Sec. 124. Reports regarding expansion of customs preclearance operations and recovery for damage resulting from customs examinations

Sec. 124(a) requires the Secretary of the Treasury, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to study the feasibility of expanding U.S. Customs preclearance operations to additional foreign airports and report to the House Committee on Ways and Means and Senate Committee on Finance by Feb. 1, 1991.

Sec. 124(b) requires the Secretary of the Treasury, in consultation with the Attorney General, to develop legal proposals to compensate importers for damages to merchandise damaged during customs inspection. A report with legislative recommendations must be submitted to the committees by Feb. 1, 1991. Section 124 also requires the Commissioner of Customs to annually provide merchandise damage statistics to the committees.

SUBTITLE D–MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Sec. 131. Treatment of Czechoslovakia and East Germany under the Generalized System of Preferences

Sec. 131 removes Czechoslovakia and East Germany from the list of countries excluded by statute from designation by the President as a beneficiary of duty-free treatment on eligible imports under the Generalized System of Preferences program.

Sec. 132. Technical amendments regarding nondiscriminatory trade treatment

Sec. 132 amends title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 (the so-called Jackson-Vanik amendment) to provide for the use of a joint resolution of approval of trade agreements; and a joint resolution of disapproval of Presidential waivers or reports with respect to the Jackson-Vanik freedom of emigration requirements. The bill removes from title IV certain provisions which have expired; adds 15 legislative days for congressional consideration of any veto message relating to a resolution of disapproval; and makes other technical and conforming changes.

Sec. 133. Competitiveness Policy Council

Sec. 133 reauthorizes the Competitiveness Policy Council for fiscal years 1991 and 1992 and extends the deadline for Presidential appointment of initial members to 30 days after enactment of the Customs and Trade Act of 1990 (until Sept. 20, 1990). The Council was established by the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988 as a high-level advisory committee to the President and the Congress on issues of competitiveness policy.

Section 134. Technical amendments relating to the United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement

Sec. 134 makes various necessary technical amendments to trade laws to ensure proper implementation of the United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement. These amendments relate to the elimination of drawback on most articles traded between the United States and Canada and to provisions of the antidumping and countervailing duty laws providing for review of certain determinations by binational panels.

Section 135. Treatment of certain information under administrative protective orders

Sec. 135 amends the procedures under the antidumping and countervailing duty laws pertaining to disclosure of business proprietary information under administrative protective orders, to restrict the time period during which customer names may be disclosed under protective order.

Sec. 136. Extension of time for preparation of report on supplemental wage allowance demonstration projects under the worker trade adjustment assistance program

Sec. 136 provides a 3-year extension (until Aug. 23, 1994) for submission to the Congress by the Secretary of Labor of a report on the results of supplemental wage demonstration projects required by the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988 to be conducted under the worker trade adjustment assistance program, and removes the limitation that these projects be carried out in fiscal years 1989 and 1990.

Sec. 137. Drug paraphernalia

Sec. 137 requires the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, and the U.S. International Trade Commission to take action under sec. 484(c) of the Tariff Act of 1930 to implement the recommendations of the Commission regarding additional statistical annotations that were made in the report of the Commission on Investigation 332-277 regarding imports of drug paraphernalia. The section also requires Customs to report to the committees regarding the operational response of the Customs Service and shall address the effectiveness of the Customs Service in seizing drug paraphernalia.

Sec. 138. Economic sanctions against products of Burma

Sec. 138 requires the President to impose such economic sanctions on Burma as he determines appropriate, giving primary consideration to sanctions on major U.S. imports from Burma, unless the President determines that sanctions against such products would have a significant adverse effect on the economic interests of the United States; and unless the President certifies to Congress that certain conditions have been met by Burma. The President must report to Congress if he does not certify that the specified conditions have been met and if he does not impose sanctions.

Sec. 139. Miscellaneous technical and clerical amendments

Sec. 139 makes various technical amendments in trade laws to update references to expired provisions in the tariff schedules and to correct clerical errors in cross-references to statutory provisions.

Sec. 140. Increase in expenditures to provide assistance for United States citizens returning from foreign countries

Sec. 113 of the Social Security Act permits the Secretary of Health and Human Services to offer temporary assistance to American citizens who are repatriated for emergency reasons to the United States from a foreign country. Such aid may be provided because of illness, destitution, or because of external factors such as war or threat of war. The act increases the limit on expenditures under this repatriation program from $300,000 to $1 million annually.

Sec. 141. Administrative provision

The act includes a provision stating that services performed after Apr. 20, 1990, by temporary employees of the Bureau of the Census for purposes relating to the 1990 decennial census constitute "Federal service" under the unemployment compensation program. As a result, wages earned by these temporary census workers will be credited to them in determining their eligibility for unemployment compensation. This provision reverses a provision enacted into law by the Dire Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1990.

Sec. 142. Nondiscriminatory treatment for the products of East Germany

Sec. 142 authorizes the President to proclaim lower, most-favored-nation rates of duty applicable under the Harmonized Tariff Schedule of the United States on products of East Germany under certain conditions.

TITLE II—CARIBBEAN BASIN ECONOMIC RECOVERY

SUBTITLE A--SHORT TITLE AND FINDINGS

Sec. 201. Short title

Sec. 201 provides that the title may be cited as the "Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery Expansion Act of 1990".

Section 202. Congressional findings

Sec. 202 makes various congressional findings about the importance of the Caribbean Basin region and the need to improve the operation of the Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery Act (commonly known as the Caribbean Basin Initiative, or CBI).

SUBTITLE B–AMENDMENTS TO THE CARIBBEAN BASIN ECONOMIC RECOVERY ACT AND RELATED PROVISIONS

Sec. 211. Repeal of termination date on duty-free treatment under the Act

Sec. 211 repeals the Sept. 30, 1995, termination date on duty-free treatment under the CBI.

Sec. 212. Duty reduction for certain leather-related products

Sec. 212 authorizes Presidential proclamation of duty reductions of 20 percent but not more than 2.5 percent ad valorem, phased in in five equal annual stages beginning on Jan. 1, 1992, on imports from CBI beneficiary countries of handbags, luggage, flat goods, work gloves, and leather wearing apparel.

Sec. 213. Worker rights

Sec. 213 includes internationally recognized worker rights criteria for the designation of CBI beneficiary countries that are consistent with the existing worker rights standards under the GSP program.

Sec. 214. Reports

Sec. 214 requires the President to submit a complete report to the Congress by Oct. 1, 1993, and every 3 years thereafter, regarding the operation of the CBI program, including the results of a general review of beneficiary countries based on all statutory designation criteria.

Sec. 215. Treatment of articles grown, produced, or manufactured in Puerto Rico

Sec. 215 provides for articles of Puerto Rico to qualify for CBI duty-free treatment if (1) the article is imported directly from a CBI beneficiary country into the United States, (2) the article was advanced in value in a CBI beneficiary country, and (3) if any materials are added to the article in a CBI beneficiary country, such materials are a product of a beneficiary country or the United States. The provision does not apply to goods ineligible for CBI duty-free treatment.

Sec. 216. Application of act in eastern Caribbean area

Sec. 216 expresses the sense of the Congress that special efforts should be undertaken to improve the ability of the eastern Caribbean and Belize to benefit from the CBI.

Sec. 221. Increase in duty-free tourist allowances

Sec. 221 increases the duty-free tourist allowance for U.S. residents returning from CBI beneficiary countries from $400 to $600 and by 1 additional liter of alcoholic beverages if produced in the region, and increases the duty-free allowance for tourists returning from U.S. insular possessions from $800 to $1,200.

Sec. 222. Duty-free treatment for articles assembled in beneficiary countries from components produced in the United States

Sec. 222 grants duty-free treatment for articles, other than textiles and apparel and petroleum and petroleum products, assembled or processed wholly from U.S. fabricated components or materials or processed wholly of U.S. ingredients (other than water) in a CBI beneficiary country and neither the components, materials, or ingredients after export from the United States nor the article itself before importation into the United States enters the commerce of any other country.

Sec. 223. Rules of origin for beneficiary country products

Sec. 223 requires the President to submit recommendations to the Congress regarding new rules of origin for CBI beneficiary countries, based upon an investigation by the International Trade Commission, to be followed by any appropriate congressional action.

Sec. 224. Cumulation involving beneficiary country products under the countervailing and antidumping duty laws

Sec. 224 creates an exception for imports from CBI beneficiary countries to the general cumulation rule under present antidumping and countervailing duty law for determining whether the unfair trade practice causes material injury to a U.S. industry. Under the exception, if imports from a CBI beneficiary country are under investigation, imports from that country may not be aggregated with imports from non-CBI countries under investigation for purposes of determining whether imports from the CBI country are causing or threatening material injury; they may be aggregated with imports from other CBI countries under investigation. Imports from CBI countries will continue to be cumulated as under present law with imports from non-CBI countries in investigations of imports from a non-CBI country.

Sec. 225. Ethyl alcohol

Sec. 225 creates, in practical effect, a one-year extension, until Dec. 31, 1992, of the existing provision enacted as part of the Steel Trade Liberalization Program Implementation Act of 1989 that sets forth local feedstock requirements for ethanol imports from CBI beneficiary countries to qualify for duty-free treatment.

Sec. 226. Conforming amendment

Sec. 226 conforms GSP rules of origin to existing CBI rules of origin by inserting the requirement in the origin rules for determining duty-free treatment under the GSP program that an eligible article must be the growth, product, or manufacture of a beneficiary developing country. Regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury for the GSP program must also conform to the rule of origin requirements under the CBI.

Sec. 227. Requirement for investment of sec. 936 funds in Caribbean Basin countries

Sec. 227 requires the Government of Puerto Rico to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that at least $100 million of new investments which qualify under sec. 936(d)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code shall be made each year in eligible Caribbean Basin countries. Refinancing of existing investments shall not constitute "new investments" for this purpose.

SUBTITLE C–SCHOLARSHIP ASSISTANCE AND TOURISM PROMOTION

Sec. 231. Cooperative public and private sector program for providing scholarships to students from the Caribbean and Central America

Sec. 231 requires the Administrator of the Agency for International Development (AID) to establish and administer a program of scholarship assistance, in cooperation with State governments, universities, community colleges, and businesses, to enable economically and socially disadvantaged students from CBI beneficiary countries that also receive U.S. foreign assistance to study in the United States. The Administrator may make grants to States to provide scholarship assistance for undergraduate degree programs and for training programs of at least 1 year in study areas related to the critical development needs of the students' countries. The Federal share of funding for each year for which a State receives payment will be not less than 50 percent, to be funded from amounts otherwise made available for Latin American and Caribbean regional programs under the economic support fund of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961.

Sec. 232. Promotion of tourism

Sec. 232 makes a congressional finding that the tourism industry must be recognized as a central element in the economic development and political stability of the Caribbean Basin, and expresses the sense of the Congress that increased tourism should be developed in the region and a high priority assigned by U.S. Government agencies to projects that promote such tourism. Sec. 232 also requires the Secretary of Commerce to complete a study begun in 1986 on tourism development strategies for the Caribbean region.

Sec. 233. Pilot preclearance program

Sec. 233 requires the Commissioner of Customs to carry out pilot preclearance operations in fiscal years 1991 and 1992 at a U.S. Customs Service facility in a Caribbean Basin country which the Commissioner considers appropriate for testing the extent to which the availability of preclearance operations can assist in the development of tourism. The pilot program is restricted to countries that do not currently have preclearance operations. The Commissioner of Customs and the Commissioner of the Immigration and Naturalization Service must first determine the viability of establishing such operations in either Aruba or Jamaica. If they determine that neither country is viable, they must so report within 6 months to the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance Committees, and then take all necessary steps consistent with the various requirements of the provision to establish operations in another country. The Commissioner of Customs must submit a report to the Congress on the pilot preclearance program as soon as practicable after Sept. 30, 1992.

SUBTITLE D--MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Sec. 241. Trade benefits for Nicaragua

Sec. 241 authorizes the President to designate Nicaragua as a beneficiary country under the GSP and CBI programs, effective through 1990, notwithstanding any other provision of law.

Sec. 242. Agricultural infrastructure support

Sec. 242 expresses the sense of the Congress that, to facilitate trade and development of CBI countries, the Secretary of Agriculture should coordinate with the AID the development of programs to encourage improvements in the transportation and cargo handling infrastructure in CBI countries to improve agricultural trade.

Sec. 243. Extension of trade benefits to the Andean region

Sec. 243 expresses the sense of the Congress urging the President to consider the merits of extending the benefits of the CBI to the Andean region and to explore additional mechanisms to expand trade opportunities for the Andean region, and report to the Congress on the results of this review.

TITLE III—TARIFF PROVISIONS

Title III is comprised of 260 tariff provisions characterized as follows: 148 new temporary duty suspensions and reductions, 80 extensions of existing duty suspensions (10 of these with other modifications), one termination of an existing duty suspension, 11 classification changes and other technical amendments, and 20 miscellaneous provisions.

TITLE IV—EXPORTS OF UNPROCESSED TIMBER

Title IV, the "Forest Resources Conservation and Shortage Relief Act of 1990," contains numerous findings that timber is an important, exhaustible natural resource in the western United States; and there is evidence that the supply situation will worsen unless the United States takes broad conservation measures. The purposes of the act are to promote the conservation of forest resources consistent with the United States' international obligations.

The act makes permanent the existing prohibition on the export of unprocessed timber originating from Federal lands west of the 100 meridian in the contiguous 48 States. The prohibition would not apply to grades and species of timber determined to be surplus, based on a review every 3 years.

A. Direct substitution. The act prohibits any person from buying Federal timber if that person will substitute the Federal timber for exported private timber; or has within the previous 2 years exported private timber. The ban on direct substitution would be effective 9 months after date of enactment. The act provides a special phaseout for certain companies that have legally been substituting under historic quotas or cooperative sustained yield unit agreements.

B. Indirect substitution. For all Western States besides Washington, the act would prohibit indirect substitution--the practice of acquiring indirectly unprocessed timber from Federal lands while exporting unprocessed private timber from the same geographic and economic area. Indirect substitution will be allowed in the State of Washington, but will be capped at 50 million board feet per year. A study on the viability of indirect substitution is due in 1995.

C. Exception for sourcing area boundaries. The prohibition on direct and indirect substitution would not apply if the purchased Federal timber used for substitution originated in an area which was geographically and economically separate from the area where the exported private timber was harvested. The act establishes an 8-month decision process during which a company could submit an application to the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture to determine the sourcing area boundaries. If the application is denied, the applicant has two options:

1. If the applicant wants to continue exporting private timber from the area, the applicant would be required to phase out Federal timber purchases within 15 months after which it would be prohibited from purchasing Federal timber in the area; or
2. If the applicant agrees to completely stop exporting private timber from the area within 15 months, the applicant (during the 15-month period) would be allowed to purchase Federal timber at the applicant's historical levels. During the 15-month period the applicant's private log exports would be limited to historical levels as well.

For all Western States (with the exception of Washington) the Secretary of Commerce shall prohibit the export of all unprocessed timber from State lands. For Washington, the Secretary of Commerce shall issue an order which prohibits the export of 75 percent of Washington State timber. The prohibition would not apply to grades and species of timber determined to be in surplus. Each State will establish their own implementation regulations and are given the discretion to determine such rules.

D. Presidential authority. The President is authorized to suspend the State export restrictions in the bill if a ruling is made by a GATT panel, or a ruling under any other trade agreement determines that the provision is in violation of U.S. obligations.

E. Modification/removal of State restrictions. If a State petitions, the President can modify or suspend the State land provision if he determines it is in the national economic interest.

F. Suspension of prohibition. After 1997, the President can suspend the State export restrictions in the actl if he finds that the prohibition no longer meets the purposes of the act.

G. Monitoring. Requires both the transferror and transferee of timber originating from Federal lands to report the transfer of unprocessed Federal timber to the appropriate Secretary.

H. Civil penalties for violation. If a person exports Federal timber in willful disregard to the act, penalties in the amount of $500,000 or three times the gross value of the timber may be imposed. If a person violates any other portion of the act, penalties of $50,000 to $75,000 may be imposed depending on the circumstances.

I. Administrative remedies. For violations of the act, administrative remedies include discretionary preclusion from bidding on Federal timber, and cancellation of contracts.

The act includes definitions of acquired, unprocessed timber, substitution, and Federal, private, and public lands.

The act includes a study of the effects and merits of hardwood exports from Eastern States.

H.R. 2443 (Mr. Gibbons); reported to House May 25, 1989. (See also H.R. 3299.)

H.R. 2443, a bill to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 1990 for the customs and trade agencies, and for other purposes, was reported by the Committee on Ways and Means to the House on May 25, 1989. In related action, the substance of the provisions contained in H.R. 2443 was enacted into law as part of Public Law 101-207 (S. 1164).

H.R. 2443 combines three separate trade agency authorizations of appropriations under the jurisdiction of the committee.

Sec. 1(a) of the bill authorizes appropriations of $39,943,000 for the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) for fiscal year 1990, the amount requested by the ITC. Of this amount, not more than $2,500 may be used for reception and entertainment expenses, subject to approval of the Chairman.

Sec. 1(b) of the bill authorizes a total amount of $1,075,290,000 for salaries and expenses for the U.S. Customs Service for fiscal year 1990.

The bill authorizes appropriations for fiscal year 1990 for noncommercial operations of not to exceed $418,822,000, and authorizes appropriations not less than $656,468,000 for commercial operations. These amounts maintain current levels of service, provide for authorization of the fiscal year 1989 pay raise, and reauthorize unfunded Customs drug enforcement programs from the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988 (Public Law 100-690). Sec. 1(b) also authorizes appropriations not to exceed $128,128,000 for Operations and Maintenance of the Customs Aviation Program, as requested by the Administration.

Sec. 1(c) of the bill authorizes appropriations for the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative (USTR) of $21,143,000, of which not to exceed $89,000 may be used for entertainment and representation expenses and $1 million would remain available until expended.

Sec. 2 of the bill makes the Office of the Commissioner of Customs a Presidential appointment, subject to Senate confirmation. It also provides that the Commissioner shall carry out duties and powers as prescribed by the Secretary.

Sec. 3 of the bill authorizes $10 million in discretionary spending from the Customs Forfeiture Fund and provides more detailed annual reporting requirements for the Fund. Sec. 4 lifts the $100,000 limitation on administrative processing of all uncontested cash seizures. Sec. 5 permits the transfer of forfeited aircraft and property to the Civil Air Patrol.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 2443 was pending on the House calendar.

In related action, the Senate approved S. 1164, a similar bill, on Aug. 3, 1989. The House passed S. 1164 on Nov. 20, 1989 with amendments. On Nov. 24, 1989, the Senate concurred in the House amendments. The President signed S. 1164 into law on Dec. 7, 1989, as Public Law 101-207.

H.R. 2461 (Mr. Aspin with cosponsor); Public Law 101-189; app. Nov. 29, 1989.

H.R. 2461, the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991, was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Armed Services on July 1, 1989. The bill passed the House (amended) on July 27, 1989. On Aug. 4, 1989 the Senate passed H.R. 2461 in lieu of S. 1322 with an amendment. As approved by the Senate, the bill contained several provisions within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means; the Speaker appointed members of the committee as conferees. On Nov. 7, 1989 the conference report was filed. The conference report was adopted in the House on Nov. 9, 1989 and in the Senate Nov. 15, 1989. The President signed H.R. 2461 into law on Nov. 29, 1989, as Public Law 101-189.

Sec. 925 of the Senate-passed bill (S. 1352) contained a provision under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means. This provision would have authorized Federal law enforcement agencies (including the U.S. Customs Service) to use appropriate force (i.e., "shoot down") to compel airborne drug traffickers to comply with instructions to land their aircraft. Sec. 925 was dropped in conference.

H.R. 2550 (Mr. Hamilton with cosponsors); passed House June 20, 1989. (See also H.R. 3402.)

H.R. 2550, the Democracy in Eastern Europe Act of 1989, was introduced June 6, 1989, and referred to the Committees on Foreign Affairs and Ways and Means. On June 20, 1989, the Committee on Foreign Affairs reported the bill to the House (amended) and the Committee on Ways and Means reported the bill without amendments. On June 20, 1989, H.R. 2550 passed the House (amended). The only provision of the bill considered by the committee as within its juridiction was sec. 2, which removes Poland from the statutory list of countries excluded from designation as beneficiaries of duty-free treatment under the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) program authorized under title IV of the Trade Act of 1974.

H.R. 2550 was superseded by H.R. 3402, including an identical provision with respect to Poland GSP. As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 2550 was pending in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

H.R. 3024 (Mr. Rostenkowski and Mr. Archer); Public Law 101-72; app. Aug. 7, 1989.

H.R. 3024, providing for a temporary increase in the public debt limit, was reported to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on July 27, 1989. The bill provides an increase of $70 billion in the public debt limit from $2,800 billion to $2,870 billion through Oct. 31, 1989, after which the limit reverts to $2,800 billion. The increase goes into effect on enactment.

The debt limit level in this bill is the amount estimated by the Secretary of the Treasury as sufficient to meet borrowing needs through Oct. 31, 1989.

The bill also would modify the accounting in the public debt limit to provide that bonds issued on a discount basis be counted in the public debt limit at the original issue price plus periodic accruals of interest. At maturity of such discounted bonds, the public debt limit would carry them at their face value which is equal to the original issue price plus the interest which accrued over the period to maturity.

H.R. 3024 passed the House on Aug. 1, 1989. The bill passed the Senate on Aug. 4, 1989, without amendment.

The President signed H.R. 3024 into law on Aug. 7, 1989, as Public Law 101-72.

H.R. 3030 (Mr. Dingell with cosponsors; passed House May 23, 1990. (See also S. 1630.)

H.R. 3030, the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, was introduced and referred to the Committees on Energy and Commerce, Public Works and Transportation, and Ways and Means on July 27, 1989. The bill was reported as follows: (amended) by the Committee on Energy and Commerce on May 17, 1990, and (amended) by the Committees on Ways and Means and Public Works and Transportation on May 21, 1990. H.R. 3030 passed the House (amended) on May 23, 1990; S. 1630, as amended, passed in lieu of H.R. 3030. A summary of the Committee on Ways and Means provisions follows.

The Committee amendments would delete or clarify certain "user fees" that are appropriately classified as taxes. Specifically, the amendments would make the following changes to H.R. 3030: (1) Delete the authority that the bill would give to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to impose "fees" as economic incentives to decrease the emission of volatile organic compounds (VOCs) from consumer or commercial products; (2) delete the authority that the bill would give to the EPA to impose "fees"as economic incentives not to pollute, as part of Federal implementation plans for attaining ambient air quality standards; (3) delete the imposition of a "fee" on major stationary sources of volatile organic compounds in certain nonattainment areas; (4) delete the authority that the bill would give to the States to impose "fees" on the import of products that contribute to the formation of ozone; (5) delete the authority that the bill would give to the EPA to impose "permitting fees" if not adequately imposed by the States; and (6) clarify that the $2,000-per-ton excess-emissions "fee" on sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides is a penalty for noncompliance with emissions limits.

The bill adopted by the conference committee addressed each of these amendments and the jurisdictional concerns of the Committee on Ways and Means as follows: (1) The bill omitted the reference to "fees" and "charges" as part of the economic incentives to be used to regulate the emissions of VOCs from consumer or commercial products (however, the conference agreement continued to provide for a special fund within the U.S. Treasury that is to hold any fees, charges or collections under the regulations); (2) the bill provided that an implementation plan promulgated by the EPA for attaining ambient air quality standards omitted the reference to fees but may include economic incentives such as marketable permits or auctions of emissions allowances; (3) the bill provided that each major stationary source of VOCs located in a nonattainment area is required to pay for the failure of the area to attain the national air ambient quality standard; (4) the bill retained the Committee on Ways and Means amendment deleting State authority to impose certain import fees; (5) the bill authorized the EPA to collect reasonable fees from persons required to obtain pollution permits if the permitting fees of the State are inadequate or a State does not adequately enforce an approved fee program, but such fees collected by the EPA must be designed solely to cover the EPA's cost of administering the provisions of the permit program; (6) the bill adopted the Committee on Ways and Means amendment by characterizing the $2,000 per ton charge on excess emissions of sulfur dioxide or nitrogen oxides as a penalty imposed for noncompliance.

Another provision of the House bill under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means requires the President to report to Congress on economic effects of differing air quality standards among trading nations and on a strategy for addressing such effects through trade consultations and negotiations. That section was adopted by the conference committee.

The Senate bill, S. 1630, also contained a provision within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means. Title VII of the Senate bill would have added a new sec. 512 to the Clean Air Act, which would impose a ban on imports of certain substances from countries that did not adopt specified clean air standards. That provision was dropped from the bill adopted by the conference committee.

H.R. 3033 (Mr. Fascell with cosponsor); passed House Oct. 22, 1990. (See also H.R. 4653.)

H.R. 3033, the Chemical and Biological Warfare Elimination Act, was introduced in the House on July 27, 1989 and referred to the Committees on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs, Foreign Affairs, and Ways and Means. On Nov. 7, 1989, the Committee on Foreign Affairs reported the bill (amended); the Committee on Ways and Means reported the bill (amended) on Nov. 8, 1989. H.R. 3033 passed the House (amended) on Nov. 13, 1989. The Senate passed the bill (amended) on May 17, 1990. The House agreed to the Senate amendment with amendment on Oct. 22, 1990.

H.R. 3033 (amended) was incorporated into H.R. 4653, the Export Facilitation Act 1990. See H.R. 4653 for a description of the provisions adopted.

H.R. 3275 (Mr. Gibbons); Public Law 101-221; app. Dec. 12, 1989.

H.R. 3275, the Steel Trade Liberalization Program Implementation Act, was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on Sept. 27, 1989. The House passed the bill (amended) on October 2, 1989; the Senate passed the bill (amended) on Nov. 22, 1989. The House then concurred in the Senate amendments. The President signed H.R. 3275 into law on Dec. 12, 1989, as Public Law 101-221.

H.R. 3275, as amended and ordered favorably reported by the Committee on Ways and Means, extends the President's authority under the Steel Import Stabilization Act of 1984 (Public Law 98-573 as amended by by Public Law 100-418) to enforce quantitative restrictions on steel imports as provided in bilateral arrangements, until Mar. 31, 1992, and otherwise provides for the implementation of the Steel Trade Liberalization Program announced by President Bush on July 25, 1989. The legislation contains the following major provisions:

1. The bill expresses congressional support for the full and effective implementation of the Steel Trade Liberalization Program, and further expresses the sense of Congress that (a) liberalized market access should be provided to those countries which work together with U.S. efforts to achieve an international consensus, and (b) the U.S. Trade Representative should promptly commence negotiations, through the Uruguay Round of negotiations in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and through complementary bilateral agreements, to seek an international consensus on subsidy disciplines, removal of trade barriers, and effective enforcement measures.

2. The bill requires the President to report annually on the progress of the international consensus. Such report may be included as part of the the President's annual report to the Congress on the operation of the trade agreements program.

3. The Steel Import Stabilization Act of 1984 is amended to extend the termination date for enforcement of bilateral steel arrangements to not later than Mar. 31, 1992.

4. The bill provides interim enforcement authority for the President between Oct. 1, 1989, and the date of concluding any bilateral arrangement in order to ensure an orderly transition to that arrangement.

5. The bill provides authority for short supply allowances and requires the Secretary of Commerce to make short supply determinations within 30 days of submission of a short supply petition (15 days under certain circumstances under a fast track procedure).

The Secretary of Commerce is required to promulgate regulations on the short supply program with interim text to be published within 30 days of enactment.

6. The bill requires the International Trade Commission to obtain certain information on domestic improvements in quality and service, and on the proportion of worker retraining funds used to retrain displaced former employees, as compared to the amounts used for on-the-job retraining for positions within the industry.

7. The bill also contains updated findings and purposes, a revised definition of "major company," and a requirement for promulgation of regulations by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Senate amended the bill as originally passed by the House by adding two new sections. The House concurred in these additional amendments, which appear as secs. 7 and 8 of Public Law 101-221. Sec. 7 revises the formula for extending duty-free treatment to imports of ethyl alcohol from Caribbean Basin countries. Sec. 8 amends the Superfund petroleum tax rate to remedy it's previous inconsistency with the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

H.R. 3299 (Mr. Panetta); Public Law 101-329; app. Dec. 19, 1989. (See also H.R. 3, 1233, 1594, 2443, 3628, 3730, H.Res. 287.)

H.R. 3299, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989, was reported to the House by the Committee on the Budget on Sept. 20, 1989. The House passed the bill (amended) on Oct. 5, 1989. The bill passed the Senate in lieu of S. 1750 with an amendment on Oct. 13, 1989. The conference report was filed on Nov. 21, 1989. The conference report was agreed to by the House and the Senate on Nov. 22, 1989. The President signed the bill into law on Dec. 19, 1989, as Public Law 101-239. A summary of the Committee on Ways and Means provisions of the act follows.

REVENUE PROVISIONS

REVENUE-RAISING PROVISIONS

In order to meet the revenue targets set by the leadership for the reconciliation of the fiscal year 1989 budget, and to improve the fairness and administration of the tax laws, the act contains several revenue-raising provisions.

1. Corporate provisions

The act adopted several modifications to the Federal tax treatment of corporations. Many of these revisions respond to issues regarding mergers, acquisitions, and excessive levels of corporate debt. One provision would bifurcate the yield on certain obligations having original issue discount into an interest portion that is deductible when paid and a portion which has some characteristics of a return on equity. Another provision would limit tax refunds arising from interest payments on debt that replaces equity. An additional provision would limit a corporate taxpayer's deductions for interest paid to related parties with respect to certain payments of interest to recipients that are not subject to U.S. taxation.

2. Accounting provisions

The act would repeal the percentage-of-completion/capitalized-cost method of accounting, with a modification for certain de minimis amounts allocated to contracts. The act also modifies the treatment of costs of acquiring franchises, trademarkes and trade names, allowing an amortization of certain capital costs over a 25-year period.

3. Excise tax provisions

The act suspends the Airport and Airway Trust Fund tax reduction trigger, imposes a tax on certain ozone-depleting chemicals, and increases the petroleum excise tax for funding the Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund. The act also modifies other present law excise tax provisions.

4. Employee Stock Ownership Plans ("ESOPs")

The act would repeal the partial interest exclusion for certain ESOP loans, and limit the deduction for dividends paid on ESOP stock. Generous transition relief would be provided.

5. Miscellaneous revenue-raising provisions

The act accelerates the time of collection of the payroll tax deposit for other taxes to be deposited greater than $100,000. In addition, the act contains several miscellaneous revenue-raising provisions with respect to the laws governing tax-exempt bonds and foreign tax rules.

EXTENSIONS OF EXPIRING TAX PROVISIONS

The act extends, with modifications, several expiring tax provisions for three-quarters of 1990, or for a period ending on Sept. 30, 1990. The list of extended expiring tax provisions includes: exclusion for employer-provided educational assistance; targeted jobs tax credit; mortgage revenue bonds and mortgage credit certificates; research and development expenses; low-income housing tax credit; allocation of research and development expenses; qualified small-issue bonds; business energy tax credits for solar, geothermal and ocean thermal property; deduction for health insurance expenses of self-employed individuals; and exclusion for employer provided group legal services.

SIMPLIFICATION OF THE TAX LAWS

1. Corporate minimum tax provisions

The act adopted a comprehensive simplification of the corporate minimum tax, including removing all references to the taxpayer's book treatment in computing the present-law adjusted current earnings preference, expanding the availablity of the minimum tax credit and allowing, as is currently allowed for regular tax purposes, a dividends-received deduction for minimum tax purposes.

2. Revision of civil penalties

The act includes modifications which improve the penalty provisions of the tax law. In general, various accuracy penalties would be consolidated and coordinated to eliminate stacking of penalties, and other penalties would be modified.

3. Arbitrage rebate

The act extends the present-law 6-month exception from arbitrage rebate to 2 years for certain bonds issued for construction projects.

MEDICARE AND HEALTH PROVISIONS

PART A

1. Reduction in capital payments to hospitals

Hospital capital-related costs would be reduced by 15 percent effective Jan. 1, 1990 through Sept. 30, 1990.

2. Payments to hospitals

(a) The update factor for 1990 for hospitals in large urban areas would be market basket minus 1.10 percent and for hospitals in other urban areas market basket minus 1.75 percent effective Jan. 1, 1990. The update for hospitals in rural areas would be market basket plus 3.0 percent. These updates include the effect of a 1.22 percent reduction in the weighting factors for DRGs effective Oct. 1, 1989.

(b) Disproportionate share payments to inner-city hospitals would be increased by revising the multiplier to .6 and to .65 percent for high disproportionate share hospitals.

(c) Rural referral centers designations would be extended, the sole community hospital program would be expanded and an Essential Access Community Hospital (EACH) demonstration program established. The Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) is required to develop a proposal for phasing-out the urban-rural differential by 1995. In the interim, Medicare-dependent small rural hospitals would be offered alternative payment. Also, a Geographic Classification Review Board would be established.

3. Cancer hospitals

Cancer hospitals would be exempt from the prospective payment system.

4. Hospice payments

Hospice payments would be increased by 20 percent for fiscal year 1990 and indexed thereafter.

5. Sequester

Part A payments would be reduced by 2.1 percent through Dec. 31, 1989.

PART B

1. Physician payment reform

The Medicare physician payment system would be revised based on a three-part package, plus a program of outcomes and effectiveness research.

A resource-based relative value scale would be implemented with a 5-year phase-in beginning on Jan. 1, 1992. Approximately 60 percent of the fees—the overhead component and 25 percent of the physician work component—would be adjusted for costs in geographic areas.

Medicare Volume Performance Standards (MVPS) would be set for 1990 and subsequent years. Factors included in the calculation of the MVPS would be the weighted average increase in the reasonable charge or fee schedule amounts, the increase in the number of Medicare beneficiaries, historic volume increases, statutory changes in the program (other than changes in prevailing charges and fee schedule amounts), and a performance standard. The performance standard for fiscal year 1990 is set at −0.5 percent.

The reform package also includes protections for beneficiaries, establishing limits on actual charges that are phased-in to 115 percent of the fee schedule amount in 1993.

The outcomes and research program includes both a research program on the appropriateness of medical treatments, and creating guidelines that can be used in reviewing the quality, effectiveness and appropriateness of medical care.

2. Overvalued procedures

Physician procedures would be designated as overvalued if they exceed the RB RVS value by at least 10 percent. Payments for these procedures would be reduced by one-third of the difference, subject to a 15 percent maximum.

3. Radiology and anesthesiology services

Radiology services would be reduced by 4 percent. Nuclear physicians would be based on a blend of prevailing charges and the radiology fee schedule.

Anesthesiology services would be paid based on the basis of actual time.

4. Payment to physicians

(a) The update for physician services for 1990 would be set at MEI for primary care services, 2 percent for other services, and at 0 percent for overpriced, radiology and anesthesiology services. The update for 1990 would be delayed to Apr. 1, 1990.

(b) Maximum allowable actual charge limits as provided by current law would be extended to Jan. 1, 1992.

(c) Customary fees for new physicians would be limited to 85 percent of the prevailing charge level in the second year of practice. Fees for certain physician services would be limited to the level of the prevailing fee of the specialty that provides the service most frequently.

5. Hospital outpatient capital payments

Hospital outpatient capital-related costs would be reduced by 15 percent effective Oct. 1, 1989, through Sept. 30, 1990.

6. Clinical laboratories

The cap on clinical laboratory fees would be set at 93 percent of national median fee.

The fee schedule amounts would receive the full CPI update.

7. Durable medical equipment

No update would be provided in 1990. Payments for seat lift chairs and trans-electrical nerve stimulation equipment would be reduced by 15 percent.

Motorized wheelchairs would be treated as routinely purchased or customized items. Payment for enteral and perenteral equipment rentals would be capped at 15 months.

8. Mental health services

(a) Coverage would be extended to services of clinical psychologists and social workers.

(b) The limit on mental health benefits would be eliminated.

9. Pap smears

Pap smears would be covered effective July 1, 1990.

10. Sequester

Part B services would be reduced by 2.1 percent through Mar. 31, 1990.

PARTS A AND B

1. Secondary payer

The Medicare secondary payer provisions would be strengthened to improve the ability of HHS to identify Medicare secondary payer cases.

Members of religious orders would be exempt from secondary payer requirements.

2. End stage renal disease program

The composite rate under Method I would be maintained through Sept. 31, 1990. Payments under Method II would be limited to the hospital-based composite rate with a 130 percent limit for continuous cycling peritoneal dialysis.

3. Physican ownership/referral

Referrals to clinical laboratories with which a referring physican has a financial relationship would be prohibited, effective Jan. 1, 1992. Exemptions would be provided for rural providers, Puerto Rico providers, group pratices, in-office ancillaries, and pre-paid plans (HMOs).

Effective Oct. 1, 1990 all Medicare providers would be required to report to the Secretary regarding ownership arrangements involving referring physicians. Each Part B claim would be required to carry the name and provider number of the referring physician. GAO would study the impact of self-referral arrangements on utilization, access, costs, and quality of additional services.

4. Hospital-based nursing and joint nursing education programs

Certain hospital-based nursing programs would be treated as if they were operated by a hospital and HHS would be prohibited from any recoupment regarding alleged overpayments to hospitals on behalf of joint nursing education programs for one year.

5. HMOs

HHS would be required to publish an explanation of the methodology and assumptions used to calculate the adjusted average per capita cost for HMOs and changes would be made to the coordinated open enrollment requirements. Payments for out-of-area services would be limited. The prohibition on HMO physician incentive payments would be waived for an additional year. Payments to HMOs would be sequestered through Dec. 31, 1989.

6. Medicare baseline

The prohibition on HHS regulations affecting the baseline would be extended for 1 year.

PAYMENTS BY BENEFICIARIES

1. Part B premium rule

The 25 percent rule for the Part B premium would be extended for 1990.

Other provisions. COBRA continuation coverage would be extended from 18 to 29 months for those with a disability at the time of termination of employment.

MEDICAID MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH PROVISIONS

1. Mandatory coverage of certain low-income pregnant women and children

Requires States to extend Medicaid coverage to all pregnant women and children up to age 6 with family incomes up to 133 percent of the Federal poverty level ($13,380 for a family of 3). Effective Apr. 1, 1990.

2. Payment for obstetrical and pediatric services

Codifies current regulatory requirement that payments must be sufficient to enlist enough providers so that covered services will be available to Medicaid beneficiaries to at least the extent they are available to the general population in a particular area.

3. Early and periodic screening, diagnostic, and treatment services defined (EPSDT)

Establishes a statutory definition of the current EPSDT benefit for children. Requires that States provide coverage for treatment to correct physical or mental problems identified during EPSDT screenings, even if these follow-up services are not covered under the State's Medicaid plan. Directs the Secretary to estabish annual goals for each State with respect to participation by eligible children in EPSDT. Effective Apr. 1, 1990.

4. Payment for federally qualified health center services

Requires States to include in their Medicaid benefit package ambulatory services provided by federally qualified health centers. These are defined as community health centers, migrant health centers, or health care for the homeless programs, as well as clinics that meet the standards of those programs but are not actually receiving grant funds. States are required to pay these centers 100 percent of their reasonable costs. Effective Apr. 1, 1990.

5. Required coverage of nurse practitioner services

Requires States, effective July 1, 1990, to cover services of certified pediatric or family nurse practitioners practicing within the scope of State law, regardless of whether they are under the supervision of, or associated with, a physician.

6. Required Medicaid notice and coordination with special supplemental food program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC)

Requires State Medicaid plans to provide for coordination between the Medicaid and WIC programs, including notification of pregnant women and children under age 5 who are eligible for Medicaid of the availability of WIC benefits.

7. Demonstration projects to study the effect of allowing States to extend Medicaid to pregnant women and children not otherwise qualified to receive Medicaid benefits

Requires the Secretary to conduct demonstration projects with several States to test alternate ways of providing health coverage to pregnant women and children under age 20 whose incomes are below 185 percent of the Federal poverty level and who are otherwise ineligible for Medicaid. The alternative forms of coverage could include, but would not be limited to, private employer group insurance, State employee group coverage, HMO enrollment, and State basic health plans for the uninsured. Federal financial participation is limited to $10 million in each of fiscal years 1990, 1991, and 1992.

MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH BLOCK GRANT

1. Increase in authorization of appropriations

Increases authorization of appropriations to $686 million for fiscal year 1990 and each fiscal year thereafter.

2. State funds and Federal set-asides

For appropriations not in excess of $600 million, the Secretary is to retain 15 percent for the purpose of carrying out various projects of reasonable and national significance and screening of newborns for sickle cell anemia and other genetic disorders. The remaining amounts not in excess of $600 million are available for allotments to the States. Of the amounts appropriated above $600 million, the Secretary is to retain 12.75 percent to support infant mortality projects and outpatient and community-based services for children with special health care needs. The remaining amounts in excess of $600 million are available to the Secretary and to the States in accordance with the current distribution formula.

3. Demonstration projects on health insurance for medically uninsurable children

Establishes authority for the Secretary to conduct up to 4 demonstration projects to provide health insurance coverage to medically uninsurable children under age 19.

MEDICAID AND MEDICARE TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS RELATING TO NURSING HOME REFORM

1. Moratorium on implementation of Feb. 2, 1989 regulation

Postpones until Oct. 1, 1990, implementation of regulations relating to requirements for nursing facilities participating in Medicaid or Medicare.

2. Nurse aide training

(a) Delays from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1, 1990, the requirement that nurse aides be trained and competent. (b) Directs the Secretary to issue proposed regulations within 90 days. (c) Clarifies that training and competency evaluation programs must address care to cognitively impaired residents. (d) Requires States to offer nurse aides alternatives to a written exam, and prohibits imposition of charges on nurse aides for course materials or testing. (e) Allows States to waive the competency evaluation (but not the training) requirements in the case of nurse aides who, as of enactment, had worked for 24 consecutive months in the State for the same employer. (f) Clarifies that enhanced Federal matching rates for nurse aide training apply to training conducted by nursing facilities.

3. Preadmission Screening and Annual Resident Review (PASARR)

Directs the Secretary to publish proposed regulations for PASARR criteria.

HUMAN RESOURCE/INCOME SECURITY PROVISIONS

1. Extension of authority to transfer foster care funds

Extends through Sept. 30, 1992 the current State authority to transfer unused foster care funds to the child welfare services program.

2. Independent living program

Extends through fiscal year 1992 the current foster care independent living program. The entitlement ceiling for the program would equal $50 million in fiscal year 1990; $60 million in fiscal year 1991; and $70 million in fiscal year 1992. A State match of 50 percent would be required beginning in fiscal year 1991 on amounts above $45 million. An evaluation of the program would also be required.

3. Medicaid transition in child support cases

Permanently extends the current law provision which gives families leaving the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program due to collection of child support 4 months of Medicaid benefits.

4. AFDC quality control

The current quality control system for AFDC program would be replaced by a new system which:

(a) Imposes penalties only on those States whose error rates are above the national average (or 4 percent, whichever is higher).

(b) Establishes penalties based on a sliding scale which reflects the degree to which a State's error rate exceeds the national average (or 4 percent, whichever is higher).

(c) Takes into account both overpayments and under payments that are made to AFDC recipients, and gives States an incentive to improve their AFDC child support collection programs.

(d) Establishes a new Quality Control Review Board to resolve disputes between States and the Federal Government over whether quality control review cases involve errors.

(e) Retains the Departmental Appeals Board to resolve all other issues in dispute between the States and the Federal Government.

(f) Allows States to appeal decisions of the Departmental Appeals Board to Federal District Court.

(g) Provides that any sanction amount owed by a State will be due within 45 days of the date notice of the disallowance is received by the State. The State may pay immediately, or the Secretary and the State may enter into an agreement under which repayment may be made over a period of up to two and one-half years. Interest will accrue beginning 45 days after receipt of the notice. If a subsequent appeal is decided in the State's favor, the Federal Government will repay all State payments with interest.

The new quality control system will be effective beginning with fiscal year 1991. Sanctions imposed in 1992 will be based on error rates determined for 1991. All sanctions for error rates determined for years before 1991 are waived.

5. AFDC and emergency assistance regulations

Prohibits HHS from issuing proposed regulations published on Dec. 14, 1987 with respect to the use of emergency assistance or special needs funds. The Department could issue proposed rules that are consistent with the recommendations of the recent HHS report on emergency assistance. Final regulations could not be issued prior to Oct. 1, 1990. States would be required to submit financial reports on the use of emergency assistance and special needs funds.

6. Increase Federal reimbursement for foster and adoptive parent training

Federal reimbursement would be allowed for foster and adoptive parent training under title IV-E at the rate of 75 percent for fiscal year 1990 through fiscal year 1992. Reimbursable activities would include the short-term training of foster and adoptive parents and the staff of licensed or approved child care institutions providing title IV-E foster care.

7. Require health and education records in the child's case plan

Requires that a foster child's case plan include certain specific information regarding the child's educational and health status. The health and education record must be reviewed and updated at the time of each placement of a child in foster care and supplied to the foster parent or foster care provider.

8. Review of State compliance with child welfare requirements

Effective for the period June 9, 1989 through Sept. 30, 1990, the Secretary of HHS could not reduce payments to or seek repayments from any State under the foster care or child welfare services program, as a result of a State's failure to pass a sec. 427 triennial review for any fiscal year preceding fiscal year 1991. Sec. 427 reviews measure compliance with certain requirements which are designed to protect children in foster care.

9. SSI outreach program for disabled and blind children

Establishes a permanent SSI outreach program for disabled and blind children.

10. SSI benefits for disabled children of parents overseas

Extends eligibility for SSI benefits to disabled children who reside with a parent who is a member of the U.S. Armed Forces assigned to permanent duty ashore outside the United States, and who during the month prior to the parent's assignment abroad was receiving SSI disability benefits.

11. Waiver of SSI income and resource deeming rules for certain severely disabled children

Waives the SSI income and resource deeming rules in the case of severely disabled children who were eligible for SSI while in a medical institution and who qualify for Medicaid under a State home care plan.

12. Exclusion from SSI income of domestic commercial transportation tickets received as gifts

Disregards, in determining income for SSI purposes, gifts of domestic commercial transportation tickets which are used by the individual and not converted to cash.

13. Reduction in time during which income and resources of separated couples must be treated as jointly available under SSI

Treats a married couple as separate individuals beginning with the first month following the month of separation.

14. Exclusion of interest and accruals on burial spaces for SSI resources limits.

Requires that in determining income and resources for purposes of SSI eligibility, interest and other accruals on burial spaces must be excluded.

15. Exclusion of the value of income-producing property under SSI

Requires that the value of property which is used in a person's trade or business, or in the employment of a family member, be excluded from the equity value of the person's property.

16. Minnesota Family Investment Plan demonstration project

Permits the State of Minnesota to test its welfare reform initiative.

17. Permanent increase in title XX

Permanently increases the title XX social services block grant by $100 million beginning in fiscal year 1990. The additional funds would not be earmarked.

18. Increase in child welfare authorization

Permanently increases the authorization for the title IV-B child welfare services program from $266 million to $325 million.

19. Demonstration project

Authorizes demonstration projects in 10 communities to test the use of volunteer senior aides to provide basic medical assistance and support to familes with disabled or chronically ill children.

20. Treatment of Agent Orange settlement payments

Excludes Agent Orange settlement payments from income and resources under SSI, AFDC, Medicaid, title XX and several other programs.

SOCIAL SECURITY

1. Continuation of disability benefits during appeal

The act extends for 1 year the provision of current law permitting disability insurance beneficiaries to elect to have their benefits continued during appeal.

2. Extension of general fund transfers to railroad retirement tier II trust fund

The act extends for 1 additional year (to Oct. 1, 1990) the transfer of proceeds from the income taxation of railroad retirement tier II benefits from the general fund of the Treasury to the railroad retirement trust fund.

3. Extension of disability insurance program demonstration project authority

The act extends for 3 additional years the authority of the Secretary of HHS to conduct work incentive demonstration projects.

4. Prohibition against termination of coverage of U.S. citizens and residents employed abroad by a foreign affiliate of an American employer

The act prohibits American employers from terminating the Social Security coverage of U.S. citizens and residents employed abroad in their foreign affiliates.

5. Treatment of refunds by employers under the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988 for FICA and other purposes

The act excludes from wages for FICA, FUTA, and railroad retirement and railroad unemployment insurance tax purposes refunds provided to individuals by employers under the maintenance-of-effort provision of the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988. In addition, the act gives the Secretary of the Treasury authority to prescribe the manner in which the refunds are to be reported.

6. Repeal of carryover reduction in retirement or disability insurance benefits due to receipt of widow(er)'s benefits before age 62

The act eliminates the carryover reduction applied to retirement or disability benefits received by widow(er)s who collected widow(er)'s benefits before age 62.

7. Extension of Social Security coverage exemption for members of certain religious faiths

The act extends the existing religious exemption from Social Security coverage to: (a) qualifying employees of partnerships in which each partner holds a religious exemption from Social Security coverage, and (b) qualifying employees of churches and church-controlled non-profit organizations who are treated as self-employed for purposes of Social Security taxation.

8. Inclusion of employer cost of group-term life insurance in compensation under the Railroad Retirement Tax Act

The act makes employer-paid premiums for group-term life insurance coverage in excess of $50,000 subject to the railroad retirement payroll tax, bringing the treatment of such premiums into conformity with their treatment under the Social Security Act.

9. Inclusion of deferred compensation arrangements, including 401(k) plans, in compensation under the Railroad Retirement Tax Act

The act makes contributions to 401(k) deferred compensation plans subject to the railroad retirement payroll tax, bringing the treatment of such contributions into conformity with their treatment under the Social Security Act.

10. Codification of the Rowan decision with respect to railroad retirement

The act stipulates that, except for meals and lodging provided for the convenience of the employer, nothing in Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations defining wages for purposes of the income tax is to be construed as requiring a similar definition for purposes of the railroad retirement payroll tax, thus conforming the Railroad Retirement Tax Act to the Social Security Act.

11. Improvements in Social Security Administration services and beneficiary protections

The act makes a numer of improvements in SSA procedures regarding correction of earnings records; standards applicable in determinationsof fault, good faith and good cause; same-day interviews on time-sensitive matters; notices sent to blind Social Security beneficiaries; legal representatives of claimants; and the avenues of recourse open to potential applicants who lose benefits because SSA provides them with inaccurate or incomplete information. In addition, SSA would be required to issue a report on options for increasing its use of foreign language notices. The act also makes conforming changes in the Supplemental Security Income program as applicable.

12. Payment of benefits to a child adopted after a parent's entitlement to retirement or disability benefits

The act provides that a child adopted after a worker becomes entitled to retirement or disability benefits is eligible for child's insurance benefits regardless of whether he or she was living with and dependent on the worker prior to the worker's entitlement.

13. Earnings and benefit statements

The act requires the Secretary of HHS, upon request, to provide individuals with a statement of their earnings and contributions and an estimate of their future benefits. In future years, these statements will be provided to all individuals who attain age 60, and biennially to all other individuals (for individuals under age 50, benefit estimates will continue to be provided only upon request).

14. Inclusion of certain deferred compensation in the calculation of average wages under the Social Security Act

The act specifies that contributions to deferred compensation plans, including amounts deferred in 401(k) plans, would be included in the determination of average wages for Social Security purposes.

TRADE PROVISIONS

As part of the conference agreement, the House receded on all trade provisions in Subtitles D (Trade Agency Authorizations, Customs User Fees, and Other Customs Provisions), E (Caribbean Basin Economic Recovery), and F (Tariff provisions) of the House reconciliation bill and agreed to make best efforts to pass S. 1164, providing authorizations of appropriations for trade agencies. The Senate agreed to make best efforts to pass H.R. 3275, with two amendments—the House-passed Superfund and CBI-ethanol provisions (on a permanent basis), subsequently enacted as part of Public Law 101-221 (H.R. 3275). The Senate also agreed to make best efforts to pass a new trade bill using a House-passed H.R.-numbered bill and containing CBI, customs users fees, miscellaneous tariff bills, a 2-year authorization of appropriations for trade agencies and other trade-related provisions the Senate Committee on Finance determined to be appropriate. The Senate conferees agreed to attempt to pass such a bill, if possible by Mar. 31, 1990. (See H.R. 1594.)

H.R. 3402 (Mr. Fascell with cosponsors); Public Law 101-179; app. Nov. 28, 1989. (See also H.R. 2550.)

H.R. 3402, Support for East European Democracy (SEED) Act of 1989, was introduced Oct. 4, 1989, and referred to the Committees on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs, Foreign Affairs and Ways and Means. On Oct. 11, 1989, the Committee on Ways and Means reported the bill to the House. On Oct. 16, 1989, the Committee on Foreign Affairs reported the bill (amended); H.R. 3402 was sequentially referred to the Committees on Agriculture, Education and Labor, Energy and Commerce, and Public Works and Transportation; the Committee on Public Works and Transportation reported the bill to the House (amended). On Oct. 19, 1989, H.R. 3402 passed the House (amended). The Senate passed the bill (amended) on Nov. 14, 1989, in lieu of S. 1542. The conference report was filed on Nov. 17, 1989, and passed the House that same day. On Nov. 18, 1989 the Senate approved the conference report. The President signed H.R. 3402 into law on Nov. 28, 1989 as Public Law 101-179.

The only provision of the act under the direct jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means is sec. 301, which is identical to a provision in H.R. 2550 that passed the House previously. Sec. 301 amends title V of the Trade Act of 1974 to remove Poland from the statutory list of countries that are excluded from designation by the President as beneficiaries of duty-free treatment on eligible products under the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) program.

H.R. 3607 (Mr. Donnelly with cosponsors); Public Law 101-234; app. Dec. 13, 1989. (See also H.Con.Res. 241.)

H.R. 3607, the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Repeal Act of 1989, was introduced Nov. 7, 1989, and referred to the Committees on Energy and Commerce and Ways and Means. On Nov. 8, 1989, the Committee on Ways and Means ordered the bill reported. The House passed H.R. 3607 on Nov. 8, 1989; the Senate passed the bill (amended). The conference report was filed on Nov. 19, 1989 and agreed to by the House. On Nov. 21, 1989, the Senate passed the conference report with an amendment; the House insisted on its disagreement to the Senate amendment; and the Senate receded from its amendment. The President signed H.R. 3607 into law on Dec. 13, 1989, as Public Law 101-234.

The act repeals the provisions of the Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988 with the exception of those provisions pertaining to the Medicaid program.

H.R. 3628 (Mr. Jenkins with cosponsors); passed House Nov. 9, 1989. (See also H.R. 3299.)

H.R. 3628, the Temporary Capital Gains Tax Reduction Act of 1989, was introduced on Nov. 9, 1989, and referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. On that same day, the bill was called up by the House as a privileged matter and passed the House. The Senate considered the measure on Nov. 14 and 15, 1989, failing to obtain cloture on both days.

H.R. 3628, as passed by the House, is identical to the capital gains reduction provisions contained in H.R. 3299 as passed by the House on Oct. 4.

The bill reduces the tax on long-term capital gains by providing a deduction of 30 percent of the gain from sales or exchanges occurring from Sept. 14, 1989, to Dec. 31, 1991. Also, the gain would not be subject to the 5-percent tax known as the bubble. This would result in a maximum tax rate of 19.6 percent on capital gains.

After 1991, long-term capital gains would have a maximum tax rate of 28 percent and would be indexed.

In addition, the bill provides that passive activities do not include an interest in certain timber property held by individuals. Consequently, losses from the timber activity could be used to shelter other active income.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 3628 was pending on the Senate calendar.

H.R. 3664 (Mr. Hatcher with cosponsors); reported to House July 18, 1990. (See also H.R. 3950.)

H.R. 3664, the Omnibus Agricultural Commodity Promotion and Research Act of 1990, was introduced and referred to the Committee on Agriculture on Nov. 15, 1989; reported (amended) on June 28, 1990. The bill was sequentially referred to the Committee on Ways and Means on June 28, 1990, and reported (amended) on July 18, 1990.

H.R. 3664 provides for the establishment of new research and promotion programs (commonly referred to as "checkoffs") for pecans, mushrooms, and limes, and for certain changes to the existing programs for honey, potatoes, and cotton. Much of the bill concerns the domestic operation of these checkoff programs, which is generally in the jurisdiction of the Committee on Agriculture. The bill was sequentially referred to the Committee on Ways and Means in light of its provisions to collect assessments on imports of these commodities. The committee reviewed these provisions of the bill, and did not change any of the provisions reported by the Committee on Agriculture, but added a new section which requires that any commodity checkoff program be applied to imports only in a nondiscriminatory manner consistent with U.S. international obligations (see sec. 701 of the reported bill). The identical provisions were reported by the committee in H.R. 3950, which was also sequentially referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. The full House never considered H.R. 3664, but did consider the identical provisions in H.R. 3950.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 3664 was pending on the House calendar.

H.R. 3730 (Mr. Rostenkowski with cosponsors); reported to House Nov. 19, 1989. (See also H.R. 3299.)

H.R. 3730, the Miscellaneous and Technical Social Security Act Amendments of 1989, was reported by the Committee on Ways and Means to the House on Nov. 19, 1989. A summary of the bill as reported follows.

The principal Social Security provisions in the bill deal with adopted children, with the quality of services provided by the Social Security Administration (SSA), and with the payment of disability benefits during appeal. With respect to adoption, the bill liberalizes the conditions under which a child adopted by a Social Security beneficiary can qualify for dependents' benefits.

The provisions dealing with SSA services include an expansion of the agency's authority to correct erroneous earnings records, require that workers receive periodic statements of their cumulative Social Security taxes and expected benefits, and require same-day interviews for individuals who visit SSA offices on time-sensitive business.

With respect to disability, the bill provides a 1-year extension of the current law option for a disabled beneficiary to continue to receive benefits while pursuing an administrative appeal.

The human resource provisions in the bill make modest improvements to title IV-B of the Social Security Act, the Child Welfare Services program, and extend an expiring provision of that law. The bill also includes a temporary prohibition on collection of certain penalties levied against States under title IV-B. A provision exempting Agent Orange settlement payments from income and resources under a variety of needs-based public assistance programs is also included and a disabled children's demonstration project is authorized.

The bill also includes a number of miscellaneous and technical health provisions.

H.R. 3950 (Mr. Fascell with cosponsors); passed House Aug. 1, 1990. (See also H.R. 3664, S. 2830.)

H.R. 3950, the Food and Agricultural Resources Act of 1990, was introduced Feb. 5, 1990, and referred to the Committee on Agriculture; sequentially referred to the Committees on Education and Labor, Foreign Affairs, and Ways and Means on July 3, 1990; and sequentially referred to the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries on July 16, 1990. H.R. 3950 was reported as follows: on July 3, 1990 (amended), by the Committee on Agriculture, on July 16, 1990 (amended), by the Committee on Foreign Affairs, on July 17, 1990, a supplemental report from the Committee on Agriculture, and on July 18, 1990 (amended), by the Committees on Education and Labor and Ways and Means. The House passed the bill (amended) on Aug. 1, 1990. The House incorporated H.R. 3950 into S. 2830 as an amendment on Aug. 4, 1990.

The Committee on Ways and Means approved the following amendments to H.R. 3950 as reported by the Committee on Agriculture: (1) an amendment to strike subtitle B of title II from the bill, relating to the authorization of a sugar for reexport program; (2) an amendment to authorize the implementation of tariff-rate quotas on imports of sugar, consistent with our General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) obligations (new subtitle C of title II); (3) an amendment to strike from the bill the required use of Social Security numbers under the food stamp program (sec. 1762); and (4) an amendment to those sections of the bill relating to commodity research and promotion programs, to require the application of such programs to imports in a nondiscriminatory manner (new sec. 1499). Certain additional amendments were approved to the agricultural export program authorities to prevent conflicts of these authorities with U.S. trade laws and U.S. international obligations under trade agreements (sec. 1211 and 1213). In addition, technical amendments were approved to various provisions authorizing studies (secs. 1233, 1235, and 1236).

The text of H.R. 3950, as passed by the House on Aug. 1, 1990, was inserted into S. 2830 as substitute text for the Senate bill on Aug. 4, 1990. See discussion under S. 2830 for explanation of the conference agreement on S. 2830.

H.R. 3952 (Mr. Fascell with cosponsors); Public Law 101-243; app. Feb. 14, 1990.

H.R. 3952, the Urgent Assistance for Democracy in Panama Act of 1990, was introduced Feb. 6, 1990 and referred to the Committees on Appropriations, Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs, Foreign Affairs, and Ways and Means. On Feb. 7, 1990 the bill was reported by the Committees on Foreign Affairs and Ways and Means, passed the House, and was adopted by the Senate in lieu of S. 2073 without amendment. The President signed H.R. 3952 into law on Feb. 14, 1990, as Public Law 101-243.

The only provision of the act under the direct jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means is sec. 103. Sec. 103 provides that the 45 legislative day disapproval period provided under sec. 802(b)(4)(B) of the Narcotics Control Act shall be deemed to be satisfied upon date of enactment of H.R. 3952 with respect to the trade sanctions taken under sec. 802(a) against Panama. These actions were the removal of duty-free preferential treatment for products of Panama under the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) and Caribbean Basin Initiative (CBI) programs pursuant to Presidential Proclamation 5779 of Mar. 23, 1988.

Sec. 103 provides for a one-time waiver of the disapproval procedure; the congressional procedure that applies to the annual certification by the President in March is not affected by the bill. Sec. 103 permits the restoration of only the trade benefits that were previously granted Panama under the GSP and CBI programs. The requirement for an exchange-of-information agreement for purposes of carrying out and enforcing U.S. tax laws remains a precondition for granting any tax benefits under the CBI program to Panama.

H.R. 4300 (Mr. Morrison of Connecticut with cosponsors); passed House Oct. 3, 1990. (See also S. 358.)

H.R. 4300, the Family Unity and Employment Opportunity Immigration Act of 1990, was introduced and referred to the Committee on Judiciary on Mar. 19, 1990. The Judiciary Committee reported the bill (amended) on Sept. 19, 1990, when it was sequentially referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Sec. 111 of H.R. 4300, as reported by the Committee on the Judiciary, would estabish a fee to be paid by certain employers petitioning for the admission to the United States as lawful permanent residents of certain employment-based immigrants and of certain nonimmigrant workers.

On Sept. 25, 1990, the Committee on Ways and Means deleted sec. 111 of the bill, thereby deleting the proposed fee, and reported the bill as amended. The House passed H.R. 4300 (amended) on Oct. 3, 1990; S. 358, as amended, passed in lieu of H.R. 4300. For conference action, including Social Security provisions, see S. 358.

H.R. 4328 (Mr. Rostenkowski with cosponsors); House sustained Presidential Veto Oct. 10, 1990. (See also H.R. 1594.)

H.R. 4328, to authorize appropriations for fiscal years 1991 and 1992 for customs and trade agencies, and for other purposes, was reported by the Committee on Ways and Means to the House on Mar. 22, 1990. The House passed the bill (amended) on Mar. 27, 1990. On May 8, 1990, the provisions of H.R. 4328 (as passed by the House on Mar. 22, 1990) were also added by the House as an amendment to H.R. 1594 (see separate description of H.R. 1594). The Senate subsequently stripped these provisions out of H.R. 4328, and then passed the bill with substitute text (the Textile, Apparel, and Footwear Trade Act of 1990) on July 17, 1990. The Senate amendment to H.R. 4328 was referred back to the Committee on Ways and Means from which it was reported to the House without recommendation on July 30, 1990. The House agreed to the Senate amendments on Sept. 18, 1990. H.R. 4328 was vetoed by the President on Oct. 5, 1990; the House sustained the President's veto on Oct. 10, 1990.

A summary of the bill as originally reported by the Committee on Ways and Means in March 1990 follows:

Sec. 1(a) authorizes appropriations of $41,170,000 for the U.S. International Trade Commission (ITC) for fiscal year 1991 and $44,052,000 for fiscal year 1992.

Sec. 1(b) authorizes a total amount of $1,340,850,000 for salaries and expenses for the U.S. Customs Service for fiscal year 1991. For salaries and expenses incurred in noncommercial operations, H.R. 4328 authorizes a maximum of $510,551,000 for fiscal year 1991 and $536,079,000 for fiscal year 1992. For salaries and expenses incurred in Customs commercial operations, not less than $672,397,000 in fiscal year 1991 and $706,017,000 for fiscal year 1992. For operations and maintenance of the Air Interdiction Program, sec. 1(b) authorizes $143,047,000 for fiscal year 1991, the amount requested, and $150,199,000 for fiscal year 1992.

Sec. 1(c) authorizes appropriations for the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative (USTR) of $23,250,000 for fiscal year 1991 and $21,077,000 for fiscal year 1992, including $2,050,000 for binational panel reviews under the U.S.-Canada Free Trade Agreement.

Sec. 2 authorizes $14,855,000 and $15,598,000 for fiscal year 1991 and fiscal year 1992, respectively, in discretionary spending from the Customs Forfeiture Fund. The section also increases Fund reporting and accounting requirements to Congress, mandates that seized cash be deposited in the Fund prior to asset sharing, and clarifies authority to share seized cash and sale proceeds with State and local agencies.

Sec. 3 lifts the requirement for judicial forfeiture proceedings for uncontested cash seizure cases over the current $100,000 limit.

Sec. 4 requires Customs to estimate the likelihood of possible violations of trade, narcotics, and other laws and requires a national enforcement strategy report to Congress.

Sec. 5 directs the Secretaries of Treasury and State to conduct a feasibility study for expanding Customs foreign airport preclearance operations. The section would also require the administration to evaluate and report to Congress on various means of providing recourse or compensation to importers for imported merchandise damaged during Customs inspection. Customs is also directed to compile and provide Congress with annual statistics on damaged imports.

Sec. 6 removes Czechoslovakia and East Germany from the statutory list of countries excluded from eligibility for duty-free treatment under the Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) program, the only East European countries remaining on the list. The President must determine that the statutory qualifying criteria are met before either country can be designated an actual GSP beneficiary.

Sec. 7 extends for 3 years (until August 1994) a statutory deadline for a report by the Secretary of Labor to the Congress evaluating supplemental wage demonstration projects required under the trade adjustment assistance program for workers.

Sec. 8 makes technical amendments to title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 and conforming amendments to secs. 151-153 to provide for joint, rather than concurrent, resolutions approving trade agreements providing most-favored-nation treatment for nonmarket economy countries, and joint, rather than one-House, disapproval resolutions of Presidential determinations regarding Jackson-Vanik freedom of emigration requirements.

A summary of the Senate amendment to H.R. 4328, as reported by the Committee on Ways and Means without recommendation on July 30, 1990, follows:

The amendment (the Textile, Apparel, and Footwear Trade Act of 1990) would impose permanent global import quotas in each product category of imports of textiles, textile products and nonrubber footwear, beginning in 1990. The global textile quotas would be based on actual levels of imports in each category in 1989, plus 1 percent in the year 1990. Each year thereafter, the textile quotas would be increased by 1 percent. The global nonrubber footwear quotas would be permanently fixed at 1989 levels (no future growth). Products of Canada and Israel would be exempt from all quotas. The amendment provides authority to establish allocations within the global quotas for textile products from the Caribbean, and from countries which purchase increasing levels of U.S. agricultural products. A 1-year pilot program of quota auctioning would be mandated for 1991. Finally, the Senate amendment includes a sense-of-the-Senate resolution concerning the process of negotiating a free trade agreement between the United States and Mexico.

H.R. 4468 (Mr. Donnelly with cosponsors); passed House Oct. 27, 1990.

H.R. 4468, to modify the employment tax treatment of certain crew members on fishing vessels, was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means on Apr. 4, 1990. On Oct. 27, 1990 the bill was called up by the House under suspension of the rules and passed by voice vote.

As introduced and passed by the House, H.R. 4468 would modify present-law treatment of individuals on small fishing vessels to provide that such individuals would not be treated as employees for employment tax purposes provided that the individual receives as compensation only a share of the boat's catch (as under present law), plus a limited additional amount of compensation. In addition, the bill would clarify the definition of small fishing vessels for these purposes.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 4468 was pending in the Senate Committee on Finance.

H.R. 4653 (Mr. Gejdenson with cosponsors); President pocket vetoed Nov. 17,1990. (See also H.R. 3033, 5431.)

H.R. 4653, the Export Facilitation Act of 1990, was introduced and referred to the Foreign Affairs Committee on Apr. 26, 1990; reported (amended) on May 10, 1990. The House passed the bill (amended) on June 6, 1990; the Senate passed the bill (amended) on Sept. 18, 1990. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees. The conference report was filed on Oct. 25, 1990. The House and the Senate agreed to the conference report on Oct. 26, 1990. On Nov. 17, 1990, the President pocket vetoed H.R. 4653.

A number of provisions under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means were included in the Senate amendment to H.R. 4653 and in modifications committed to conference.

The Senate amendment contained a provision relating to the proliferation of missile technology. As adopted by the conference committee and passed by the House and Senate, the provision amends current law to establish controls on the proliferation of missile technology. It provides for the use of sanctions, including discretionary import sanctions, against foreign persons knowingly violating those controls. Finally, it provides waivers and exceptions to give the President flexibility in imposing such sanctions.

Among the modifications committed to conference was the incorporation of H.R. 3033 into the conference. H.R. 3033 (amended), the Chemical and Biological Weapons Control and Warfare Elimination Act of 1990, provides authority for the use of sanctions, including import sanctions, against foreign companies and countries that violate the bill's provisions against the proliferation and use of chemical and biological weapons. It mandates at least 1 year of sanctions against company and country violators, with limited exceptions and waivers.

Also committed to conference was H.R. 5431 relating to sanctions against Iraq. As amended in conference, the bill requires the President to impose a number of economic sanctions, including import sanctions, against Iraq in response to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait. During consideration of H.R. 5431 by the Committee on Ways and Means on Aug. 2, 1990, the Committee approved a provision which was further amended in conference. That provision authorizes the President, if he considers it would promote the effectiveness of the United Nation and U.S. economic sanctions and is consistent with the national interest, to impose an import ban on any or all products of any country that has not prohibited imports from and exports to Iraq.

H.R. 4739 (Mr. Aspin with cosponsors); Public Law 101-510; apv. Nov. 5, 1990.

H.R. 4739, the Department of Defense Authorization Act, 1991, was introduced and referred to the Committee on Armed Services on May 8, 1990, and reported (amended) on August 3, 1990. The bill passed the House (amended) on Sept. 19, 1990, and the Senate approved the bill with amendments on Sept. 25, 1990. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees on secs. 645, 1223, and division D of the Senate amendment. The conference report was filed on Oct. 23, 1990. The House agreed to the conference report on Oct. 24, 1990; the Senate on Oct. 26, 1990. The President signed H.R. 4739 into law on Nov. 5, 1990, as Public Law 101-510.

Sec. 645 of the Senate amendment proposed to extend unemployment benefits to ex-service members under the same terms and conditions as civilian employees (i.e., provide 26 weeks of benefits rather than 13) and eliminated the 4-week waiting period for benefits. These provisions were dropped in conference.

Sec. 1223 of the Senate amendment authorizes the President, notwithstanding any other provision of law, to restrict imports of goods and services from any nation which continues to maintain economic relations with Iraq in violation of economic sanctions against Iraq imposed by the international community as a whole or by the United States. The House and Senate conferees agreed to an amended version of this authority similar to language approved by the Committee and passed by the House as part of H.R. 5431 applicable if the President considers an import ban would promote the effectiveness of Iraqi sanctions and is consistent with the national interest. The authority would apply to any foreign country that has not prohibited exports of its products to Iraq or imports from Iraq, or given statisfactory assurances such sanctions will be promptly implemented.

Division D of the Senate amendment establishes a national energy security policy, including the establishment of a national oil import ceiling at 50 percent of U.S. consumption and requiring the President if the ceiling is exceeded to submit an action plan to the Congress to be implemented upon enactment of a joint resolution. The Senate conferees receded on this provision.

H.R. 4939 (Mr. Pease with cosponsors); passed House Oct. 18, 1990.

H.R. 4939, regarding the extension of most-favored-nation treatment to the products of the People's Republic of China, and for other purposes, was reported (amended) by the Committee on Ways and Means on July 23, 1990. The House approved the bill (amended) on Oct. 18, 1990. A summary of the Committee on Ways and Means provisions of the bill as approved by the House follows.

H.R. 4939 would add a number of new objectives, relating to the overall human rights situation in China, which must be taken into account in the event that the President proposes that the waiver authority of sec. 402 of the Trade Act of 1974 (the so-called Jackson-Vanik amendment) be extended for China for an additional 12-month period in 1991.

The bill would require the President, when deciding whether or not to recommend extension of the waiver authority in 1991, to take into account a variety of factors relating to Hong Kong and Taiwan. It establishes a statement of principles for U.S. companies doing business in China.

Finally, the bill would provide that as part of the document which the President must submit to Congress as part of his Jackson-Vanik waiver recommendation, the President also must report on the extent to which the Chinese government has met the objectives listed in H.R. 4939.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 4939 was pending in the Senate Committee on Finance.

H.R. 5269 (Mr. Brooks with cosponsors); passed Senate Oct. 23, 1990.

H.R. 5269, the Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1990, was introduced and referred on July 13, 1990, to the Committees on Armed Services, Education and Labor, Energy and Commerce, the Judiciary, and Ways and Means. H.R. 5269 was sequentially referred on Sept. 5, 1990 to the Committees on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs, Government Operations, Interior and Insular Affairs, the Judiciary, Public Works and Transportation, and Veterans' Affairs. The bill was reported (amended) from the Committee on the Judiciary on Sept. 5, 1990, and reported (amended) from the Committee on Ways and Means on Sept. 10, 1990.

The Committee on Ways and Means reported these tax-related amendments to H.R. 5269: extend for 2 years rules that allow IRS to churn income from undercover operations (sec. 2301); extend for 2 years provisions that allow Treasury to disclose information returns relating to $10,000 cash transactions to other Federal agencies for purposes of law enforcement (sec. 2302); change criminal penalty for failure to file information returns relating to $10,000 cash transactions from misdemeanor to felony (sec. 2303); clarify that the newly created National Commission on Financial Crimes can obtain official taxpayer information only as provided under Internal Revenue Code provisions that govern the disclosure of such information (sec. 2304); and deny tax deduction for payments of restitution made to the U.S. Government in connection with financial institutions crime (sec. 2305). A Committee on Ways and Means amendment also deleted a provision contained in H.R. 5269 as introduced that would have allowed, for the first time, the Treasury Department to sell forfeited firearms to dealers, who could then sell them to the general public.

H.R. 5269 passed (amended) in the House on Oct. 5, 1990; the Senate passed the bill (amended) on Oct. 23, 1990, substituting the language of S. 1970 amended. S. 1970, as approved by the Senate, contained these tax-related amendments: impose requirements on the Treasury Department to report to Congress regarding $10,000 cash reporting by taxpayers (sec. 501); exempt certain scholarship assistance from gross income (sec. 1312(f)); require certain retail food stores and wholesale food concerns to submit taxpayer identification numbers to the Secretary of Agriculture (sec. 2902); create new rules governing judgment liens and the priority of liens in tax cases (sec. 3311); and change the criminal penalty for willful violations of the $10,000 cash reporting requirement from a misdemeanor to a felony (sec. 3711). The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees. In the conference held on Oct. 26, 1991, S. 3266, the Crime Control Act of 1990, was adopted as a substitute for H.R. 5269. Certain of the tax-related provisions contained in the House and Senate versions of H.R. 5269 were included in S. 3266, as follows: secs. 2301 through 2304 of the House-passed version of H.R. 5269 were included as secs. 3301 through 3304, respectively, of S. 3266. Secs. 501 and 3711 of the Senate-passed version of H.R. 5269 were included as secs. 101 and 3303, respectively, of S. 3266.

H.R. 5269 was amended by the House to provide new Customs penalties for failure to obey an order to land an aircraft. Also, S. 1970, as approved by the Senate, included the following provisions under the trade jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means: impose an import ban on certain specifically designated assault weapons (sec. 402); establish import licensing program for certain precursor chemicals (sec. 805); increase the maximum value of seized property subject to administrative (summary) forfeiture from $100,000 to $500,000 (sec. 1902); eliminate restrictions on the disposition of judicially forfeited property by the Treasury Department (sec. 1911); allow State and local law enforcement agencies to be reimbursed for expenses if they "assist" U.S. Customs in an operation (sec. 1913). In the conference held on Oct. 26, 1990, all the above trade provisions were dropped.

H.R. 5350 (Mr. Rostenkowski); Public Law 101-350; app. Aug. 9, 1990.

H.R. 5350, providing for a temporary increase in the public debt limit, was reported to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on July 26, 1990. The bill as introduced would have temporarily increased the public debt limit by $72.3 billion through Oct. 15, 1990. The extension date was amended on the House floor to expire on Oct. 2, 1990. The bill was passed (amended) by the House on Aug. 3, 1990. The Senate approved the bill, without amendment, on Aug. 4, 1990. The President signed H.R. 5350 into law on Aug. 9, 1990, as Public Law 101-350.

H.R. 5350, as amended, provides an increase of $72.3 billion in the public debt limit from $3,122.7 billion to $3,195 billion through Oct. 2, 1990, after which the limit reverts to $3,122.7 billion. The increase goes into effect upon enactment.

H.R. 5355 (Mr. Rostenkowski); passed House July 31, 1990.

H.R. 5355, providing for a permanent increase in the statutory public debt limit was reported to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on July 26, 1990. The bill passed the House (amended) on July 31, 1990.

H.R. 5350, as passed by the House, provides a permanent increase of $321 billion in the statutory public debt limit from $3,122.7 billion to $3,444 billion through Sept. 30, 1991. The increase goes into effect upon enactment.

During its consideration of H.R. 5350, the House amended the bill by agreeing to exclude Social Security Trust Funds receipts and disbursements when calculating maximum deficit amounts. The House also required a report to the Congress by the Board of Trustees of the OASDI Trust Funds regarding the actuarial balance of the trust funds.

H.R. 5400 (Mr. Swift with cosponsors); passed Senate Sept. 18, 1990.

H.R. 5400, the Campaign Cost Reduction and Reform Act of 1990, was introduced and referred on July 30, 1990, to the Committees on House Administration, Energy and Commerce, Post Office and Civil Service, and Ways and Means. The bill passed (amended) in the House on Aug. 3, 1990, and the Senate passed the bill (amended) on Sept. 18, 1990.

The legislation contained provisions establishing a tax credit for certain candidates. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees on the bill. As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, no action was taken by the conference.

H.R. 5431 (Mr. Fascell with cosponsors); passed House Aug. 2, 1990. (See also H.R. 4653.)

H.R. 5431, Sanctions Against Iraq Act of 1990, was introduced and referred to the Committees on Foreign Affairs, Ways and Means, and Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs on Aug. 2, 1990, and on that same day was considered and discharged for action by the House. The House passed H.R. 5431 (amended) on Aug. 2, 1990.

H.R. 5431 (amended) was incorporated into H.R. 4653, the Export Facilitation Act of 1990. See H.R. 4653 for a description of the provision adopted.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 5431 was pending in the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs.

H.R. 5755 (Mr. Rostenkowski); Public Law 101-405; app. Oct. 2, 1990.

H.R. 5755, to extend the temporary increase in the public debt limit, was approved by the House and Senate on Sept. 30, 1990. The President signed H.R. 5755 into law on Oct. 2, 1990, as Public Law 101-405.

H.R. 5755, as enacted, provides for an extension of the temporary increase in the public debt limit from Oct. 2, 1990, until Oct. 6, 1990.

H.R. 5822 (Mr. Rostenkowski); reported to House Oct. 17, 1990. (See also H.R. 5835.)

H.R. 5822, the Technical and Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1990, was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on Oct. 17, 1990.

H.R. 5822 includes the tax technical corrections provisions of H.R. 5454 (Technical Corrections Act of 1990) as introduced on Aug. 3, 1990, as well as certain additional tax technical corrections.

H.R. 5822 also includes the provisions of H.R. 5415 (Deadwood Act of 1990) as introduced on July 31, 1990, and certain additional provisions. These provisions remove from the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 numerous provisions that are no longer used in computing current taxes or are little used and are of minor importance. Futher, these provisions revise the requirements for various Treasury studies which Congress has mandated in previous years.

In addition, H.R. 5822 increases the threshold above which certain tax refunds must be submitted for review to the Joint Committee on Taxation from $200,000 under present law to $1,000,000.

Finally, H.R. 5822 includes the tecnical customs and tariff provisions of H.R. 5778 as introduced on Oct. 3, 1990, as well as certain additional customs provisions. These provisions correct technical errors in the Customs and Trade Act of 1990, make technical amendments to the Harmonized Tariff Schedule, and provide authority for the Secretary of the Treasury to adjust the Customs merchandise processing fee, subject to certain limitations. These provisions were included, as amended, in the conference report to accompany H.R. 5835, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.R. 5822 was pending on the House calender

H.R. 5828 (Mr. Rostenkowski); reported to House Oct. 18, 1990. (See also H.R. 5835.)

H.R. 5828, the Technical and Miscellaneous Social Security Act Amendments of 1990, was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on Oct. 17, 1990.

The Technical and Miscellaneous Social Security Act Amendments of 1990 make noncontroversial, minor and technical amendments to the human resource, Social Security, and Medicare programs within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means. These changes are summarized below.

HUMAN RESOURCES

Title I of the bill contains 24 human resource amendments affecting the child support enforcement, unemployment compensation, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), child welfare, and foster care programs. Among these are several time-sensitive time-sensitive provisions, including a permanent extension of authority for the Internal Revenue Service to intercept, from tax refunds, overdue child support owed to non-AFDC families.

The bill also includes several low cost amendments proposed by the administration, such as additional authority for the existing repatriation program which permits the United States to bring home certain destitute

Americans from overseas, optional monthly income reporting requirements for AFDC families, and more equitable treatment of foster care and adoption assistance payments in determining AFDC eligibility.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Title II of the bill includes provisions which improve benefits for disabled widows, enhance Social Security Administration services and beneficiary protections, restore telephone access to the local offices of the Social Security Administration, and reform the representative payee system. The package also includes an increase in the retirement test exempt amount and eliminates Social Security benefit recomputations for persons working past age 69. In addition, it streamlines the attorney fee payment process, eliminates certain retroactive benefits, and makes permanent the continuation of disability benefits during appeal.

The package also includes several provisions to make technical corrections in the Social Security Act and Railroad Retirement Tax Act.

HEALTH

Title III of the bill includes provisions relating to the Medicare program.

Subtitle A contains items to improve the administration and effectiveness of the Medicare program with no cost. Provisions regarding patient self-determination and standards for Medigap insurance as well as a number of miscellaneous provisions are included in this subtitle.

Subtitle B contains Medicare initiatives. These items are supported on a pay-as-you-go basis by proposed reductions in Medicare spending in subtitle C. Provisions of subtitle B include revisions of payments for university nursing education programs, community health centers and rural clinics and nurse anesthestists. The rates for ESRD dialysis facilities would be increased. The hospice benefit would be expanded to eliminate the 210-day lifetime limit.

Subtitle C includes a number of provisions to reduce spending for Medicare services by a sufficient amount to exceed the estimated costs of the initiatives in subtitle B. These items are generally similar to provisions of the committee-reported reconciliation bill. Items in this subpart include revisions to the hospital outpatient payment blend for ambulatory surgery and radiology, and payments for unsurveyed overpriced procedures.

H.R. 5835 (Mr. Panetta); Public Law 101-508; app. Nov. 5, 1990. (See also H.R. 3, 5822, 5828.)

H.R. 5835, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990, was reported from the Budget Committee on Oct. 16, 1990, and passed (amended) by the House. The Senate passed the bill with amendment on Oct. 19, 1990. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees. The conference report was filed on Oct. 27, 1990. The House and Senate agreed to the conference report on Oct. 27, 1990. The President signed H.R. 5835 into law on Nov. 5, 1990, as Public Law 101-508. A summary of the Committee on Ways and Means provisions in the act follows.

I. MEDICARE AND HEALTH PROVISIONS

PART A

1. Reduction in capital payments to hospitals

Hospital capital-related costs will be reduced by 15 percent in fiscal year (FY) 1991, and 10 percent in FY 1992 through FY 1995.

2. Payments to hospitals

(a) The update factor for hospitals in FY 1991 will be market basket minus 2.0 percent; in FY 1992 market basket minus 1.6 percent; in FY 1993 market basket minus 1.55 percent; and in FY 1994 and FY 1995 market basket.

(b) The disproportionate share adjustment will be made permanent. The disproportionate share adjustment will be increased for urban hospitals over 100 beds by increasing the multiplier in the formulas on a phased basis.

(c) The payment gap between rural and other urban hospitals will be closed, and the regional floor will be extended through FY 1993.

3. Essential access community hospitals (EACHs)

The Essential Access Community Hospital (EACH) demonstration program will be established. EACH hospitals are required to provide emergency and back-up services for hospitals in their network and throughout their service area, accept transfers from rural primary care hospitals (RPCHs) in the network, provide staff privileges to physicians in the service area providing care at RPCHs, and meet other responsibilities provided by the State or Secretary.

4. Payments for graduate medical and nursing education

The Secretary will be prohibited from making any recoupments relating to overpayments for the costs of graduate medical education in FY 1991. The recoupments will then be made over a 4-year period beginning in FY 1992.

5. PPS-exempt hospitals

PPS-exempt hospitals with costs in excess of the cost limits imposed by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act (TEFRA) will receive 50 percent of the costs in excess of the limit, up to a ceiling of 120 percent of the limit.

6. Hospice payments

Hospice payments will be extended beyond the 210-day limit.

7. Continuation in part A payments

Payments to hospitals and hospices will be continued at FY 1990 levels for the period October 21, 1990, to December 31, 1990.

PART B

1. Payments to physicians

(a) Payments for primary care services will be increased by 2 percent in FY 1991.

(b) Payments for overpriced procedures, radiology, anesthesiology, and pathology services, and certain other technical services, will be reduced.

(c) Customary charges of new physicians and other health professionals will be limited in the first through fourth years of practice.

(d) Payments for the services of a physician serving as an assistant-at-surgery will be reduced.

(e) Payments for the technical component of certain diagnostic tests will be limited to the national median of the reasonable charge (or fee schedule amount) for the service involved.

(f) No separate payment will be made for the interpretation of a routine electrocardiogram (EKG) that is performed or ordered in conjunction with a visit or consultation, effective Jan. 1, 1992.

2. Hospital outpatient services

(a) Capital payments for hospital outpatient services will be reduced 15 percent from cost in FY 1991, and 10 percent in each of the four subsequent fiscal years.

(b) Payments for services on a cost-related basis will be reimbursed at 94.2 percent of costs.

3. Durable medical equipment

(a) The update for DME will be reduced by 1 percent in 1991 and 1992.

(b) Payments for transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulation (TENS) devices will be reduced by 15 percent. Payments for seatlift chairs will be limited to the lift mechanism.

(c) Current law regional limits on fees will be repealed, and national upper- and lower-fee limits will be established for all categories of DME except for customized equipment. These limits will be phased-in over 3 years.

(d) Payments for the rental of DME rental-cap items will be based on a fee schedule equal to 10 percent of the purchase price for the first 3 months of rental, and 7.5 percent of the purchase price for the 4th through 15th months of rental. The purchase price will be rebased to the allowed purchase price. Patients will be able to purchase rental equipment in the 10th month of rental.

(e) Payments for enteral and parenteral nutrients, equipment and supplies, and orthotics and prosthetics, will not be updated in 1991.

4. Clinical laboratory services

The update for clinical laboratory services will be limited to 2 percent for each of the years 1991, 1992, and 1993. The national limit on payments will be reduced from 93 percent to 88 percent of the median of local fee schedules.

5. Reductions in payments under part B

Payments under part B (except to HMOs) will be reduced by 2 percent for services furnished on or after Nov. 1, 1990, and on or before Dec. 31, 1990.

PARTS A AND B

1. Mammography screening

Mammography screening will become a covered Medicare benefit, and is effective for services provided on or after Jan. 1, 1991.

2. End stage renal disease (ESRD) program

(a) The payment rate for hospital-based and free-standing facilities will be maintained at the rate in effect Sept. 30, 1990, without regard to reductions imposed by OBRA 1989. Effective Jan. 1, 1991, the rate will be increased by $1.

(b) Coverage of erythropoietin (EPO) and items related to its administration will be allowed for home renal-dialysis patients, effective July 1, 1991. Payments for EPO will be revised, and will be based upon 1,000-unit increments.

3. Secondary payer

Secondary payer provisions included in OBRA 1989 that apply to ESRD patients, disabled beneficiaries, and the transfer of data will be extended.

4. HMOs

The Secretary could not enter into a contract with an HMO unless certain conditions regarding the physician incentive payment plan were met. Also, limits on payments for out-of-plan and emergency physician services under part B will be extended, and payments on behalf of beneficiaries enrolling in a Medicare risk-contract HMO, who held prior membership in that HMO under an employer group contract, will be permitted.

5. PROs

Changes will be made in the PRO program which will clarify the willing and able standard, provide for the exchange of information between PROs, Medicare carriers and State licensing boards, assure the confidentiality of PRO deliberations, clarify the limits on liability for PROs, and increase the involvement of optometrists and podiatrists in the review of their services.

6. Medicare supplemental insurance (medigap)

(a) Benefit options will be simplified to provide for a core group of benefits.

(b) Insurers will be required to provide beneficiaries with a summary of benefits, using uniform language and format.

(c) The sale of duplicate medigap policies to existing policyholders or to Medicaid beneficiaries will be prohibited.

(d) Minimum loss ratios will be increased to 65 percent for individually-sold Medigap policies, with noncompliance subject to rebates or credits.

(e) Medigap policies will be required to be guaranteed renewable, limitations will be placed on medical underwriting, coverage will be required to be offered for a 6 month period after an applicant turns 65, regardless of the applicant's medical history, and meaningful enforcement of standards will be established.

(f) The Secretary will be required to provide grants to States to encourage the development of counseling programs to educate Medigap insurance consumers.

PAYMENTS BY BENEFICIARIES

1. Part B premium rule

The 25 percent rule for the part B premium will be extended through 1995.

2. Part B deductible

The part B deductible will be increased to $100 beginning in 1991.

II. Social Security And Railroad Retirement Provisions

A. SOCIAL SECURITY COVERAGE OF STATE AND LOCAL EMPLOYEES NOT COVERED BY A PUBLIC RETIREMENT SYSTEM

Employees of State and local governments (excluding students who are employed by public schools, colleges or universities) who are not covered by a public retirement system will be covered by Social Security and Medicare (i.e., Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (OASDI) and Hospital Insurance (HI)). The provision will be effective July 1, 1991.

B. BUDGETARY TREATMENT OF SOCIAL SECURITY TRUST FUNDS

The Social Security trust funds (OASDI Trust Funds) would be removed from the calculation of the deficit under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law; thus, Social Security would be taken "off budget." The trust funds would be protected by points of order in the House and Senate against legislation which would reduce trust fund balances.

C. PROVISIONS RELATING TO BENEFITS AND ADMINISTRATION OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY PROGRAM

1. Continuation of disability benefits during appeal

The provision in current law permitting disability beneficiaries to elect to have their benefits continued during appeal will be made permanent.

2. Improvement of the definition of disability applied to disabled widow(er)s

The stricter definition of disability which is now applied only to widow(er)s will be repealed. Instead, a disabled widow(er) will be subject to the same definition of disability as is already applied to disabled workers.

3. Payment of benefits to a child adopted by a surviving spouse

A child adopted by the surviving spouse of a deceased worker will be entitled to benefits regardless of whether he or she has been receiving support from anyone other than the worker and the worker's spouse, so long as the child has either lived with the worker or received one-half support from the worker in the year preceding the worker's death.

4. Improvements in the representative payee system

The representative payee system will be improved by: (a) requiring the Secretary of Health and Human Services (the Secretary) to conduct a more extensive investigation of the representative payee applicant; (b) providing stricter standards in determining the fitness of the representative payee applicant to manage benefit payments on behalf of the beneficiary; and (c) directing the Social Security Administration (SSA) to make recommendations regarding the application of stricter accounting procedures to certain high-risk representative payees.

In addition, the provision will allow certain community-based nonprofit social service agencies providing representative payee services of last resort to collect a fee from an individual's Social Security benefit for expenses incurred in providing such services.

5. Streamlining of the attorney fee payment process

The process by which SSA reviews and approves any fee charged by an attorney representing a claimant before the agency will be reformed. The current fee petition process will generally be replaced by a streamlined procedure under which fees will be paid up to a limit of 25 percent of past-due benefits not to exceed $4,000, unless the attorney, claimant, or administrative law judge objects. The fee petition will be retained in cases for which the fee requested exceeds the limits, or if the determination made on the claim is not favorable.

6. Improvements in SSA services and beneficiary protections

The Secretary must carry out a demonstration to test ways to improve procedures for providing service by telephone. In addition, when a claimant who is denied benefits reapplies, rather than appealing, based on inaccurate or misleading information from SSA, the failure to appeal will not constitute a basis for denial of the second application. There will also be new requirements for improvements in notices regarding title II and title XVI benefits.

7. Restoration of telephone access to the local offices of SSA

SSA must reestablish telephone access to its local offices at the level generally available on Sept. 30, 1989, the day before it established a national 800 number and cut off most of its local office telephones.

8. Improvement in earnings and benefit statements

Workers covered by Social Security will receive an annual statement concerning earnings and potential benefits, beginning in the year 2000.

9. Creation of a rolling five-year trial work period for all disabled beneficiaries

The current trial work period will be liberalized so that a disabled beneficiary will exhaust this period only after completing 9 trial work months in a rolling 60-month period (rather than being limited to a single 9 month trial work period in any one period of disability).

10. Continuation of benefits on account of participation in a non-State vocational rehabilitation program

Beneficiaries who medically recover while participating in an approved non-State vocational rehabilitation program will be granted the same benefit continuation rights as those who medically recover while participating in a State-sponsored program.

11. Limitation on new entitlement to special age-72 payments

The provision will preclude the unintended payment of so-called Prouty benefits, which were enacted in 1966 to help workers who were too old to earn sufficient quarters of coverage to qualify for regular benefits. Because of subsequent amendments to the law, it is theoretically possible for some workers to qualify for Prouty benefits after 1990, even though, when enacted, they were not expected to be paid to anyone who reached age 72 after 1971.

12. Elimination of advance tax transfer

The Social Security trust funds will be credited with tax receipts as they are collected throughout the month, rather than in advance (at the first of the month), as under current law. However, the advance tax-transfer mechanism (enacted to help meet the Social Security funding emergency that existed prior to the 1983 amendments) will be retained as a contingency to be used if the trust funds drop to such a low level that it is needed in order to pay current benefits. The present crediting rules can present Treasury with a situation in which trust fund assets cannot be invested because the debt limit has been reached.

13. Repeal of retroactive benefits for certain categories of individuals

Retroactive benefits will no longer be available for two categories of individuals eligible for reduced benefits: (a) those with dependents entitled to unreduced benefits, and (b) those with pre-retirement earnings over the amount allowed under the retirement test who may use the retroactive benefits to charge off their excess earnings.

14. Consolidation of old computation methods

A number of little-used, pre-1968 benefit computation formulas will be eliminated.

15. Suspension of dependents' benefits when a disabled worker is in an extended period of eligibility

The provision codifies current SSA practice regarding the nonpayment of benefits to a disabled worker's dependents when that worker is in an extended period of eligibility and is not receiving monthly Social Security benefits.

16. Payment of benefits to a deemed spouse and a legal spouse.

Eligibility requirements for payment of benefits to a "deemed spouse" a spouse whose marriage is found to be invalid will be changed so that the entitlement of the worker's legal spouse will no longer terminate payment of benefits to a deemed spouse.

17. Creation of a vocational rehabilitation demonstration project

SSA must carry out a demonstration project testing the advantages and disadvantages of permitting disabled Social Security beneficiaries to select a qualified vocational rehabilitation provider, either public or private, from which to receive services aimed at enabling them to obtain work and leave the disability rolls.

18. Use of Social Security number by certain legalized aliens

Certain aliens who were granted amnesty under the provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 will be exempted from criminal penalties for fraudulent use of a Social Security card. The exemption will not apply to those individuals who sold Social Security cards, possessed cards with intent to sell, or counterfeited or possessed counterfeited cards with the intent to sell.

19. Reduction in amount of wages needed to earn a year of coverage toward the special minimum benefit

The amount of earnings needed to earn a year of coverage toward the special minimum benefit (designed to assist long-term, low-wage workers) will be reduced from 25 percent of the "old law" contribution and benefit base ($9,000 in 1991), to 15 percent of the base ($5,940 in 1991).

20. Charging of earnings of corporate directors

The provision of current law that treats a corporate director's earnings as taxable when the services to which they are attributable are performed will be repealed. A director's earnings would continue to be treated as received when the services are performed for purposes of the Social Security retirement test.

21. Collection of employee Social Security tax on group-term life insurance

In cases where an employer continues to provide taxable group-term life insurance to an individual who has left his employment, the former employee will be required to pay the employee portion of the Social Security tax directly. (To accomplish this, the owed tax will be listed separately on the former employee's W-2, and 1040 filing instructions will be modified to direct filers to add this amount to their tax liability.)

22. Cross-referencing of railroad retirement tier 1 tax rate to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA)

The railroad retirement tier 1 tax rate, which is equivalent to the combined OASDI and HI tax rates, will be determined by cross-reference to FICA.

23. Two-year extension of general fund transfers to railroad retirement tier 2 trust fund

The transfer of proceeds from the income taxation of railroad retirement tier 2 benefits from the general fund into the Railroad Retirement Account will be extended for 2 additional years, until Oct. 1, 1992.

24. Waiver of the two-year waiting period for certain divorced spouses

The 2 year waiting period for independent entitlement to divorced spouse benefits will be waived in cases where the worker was entitled to benefits prior to the divorce.

25. Pre-effectuation review of favorable decisions by the Social Security Administration

The percentage of favorable decisions made by State disability determination services that must be reviewed by SSA will be reduced from 65 percent of all such decisions to 50 percent of allowances and as many continuances as are required to maintain a high level of accuracy in such decisions. The reviews will be targeted on those cases most likely to contain errors.

26. Recovery of overpayments from former Social Security beneficiaries through tax refund offset

SSA will be permitted to recover overpayments from former beneficiaries through arrangements with the Internal Revenue Service to offset the former beneficiary's tax refund. This authority will remain in effect so long as the existing Government-wide offset program remains in effect (currently, until Jan. 10, 1994).

27. Technicals

A number of technical errors related to the Social Security Act will be corrected.

III. Provisions Relating to Child Care, Human Resources, and Family Policy

A. TAX CREDITS/CHILD CARE

1. Tax credits

The Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is a refundable tax credit that is available to low-income families that include at least one child. In 1990, the maximum credit equals 14 percent of the first $6,810 of earned income. This credit will be increased and modified to provide: an adjustment for family size, an additional 6 percent credit for the cost of health insurance that covers a child, and an additional 5-percent credit for families with a child under age 1.

Each of these credits will use the same eligibility and income phaseout rules that are used for the EITC under current law. In 1990, the EITC begins to phase out for families with an adjusted gross income of $10,740, and is completely phased out at a level of $20,270. (The projected income phaseout levels for 1991 are $11,190 and $21,130. The projected 1991 maximum credit under current law would be $994.)

The EITC modifications are as follows:

(a) The EITC will be increased and adjusted for family size, beginning with taxable year 1991, to provide a basic credit equal to:

in 1991
- one child = 16.7-percent credit;
- two or more children = 17.3-percent credit (projected 1991 maximum of $1,186 for one child; $1,228 for two or more children)

in 1992
- one child = 17.6-percent credit;
- two or more children = 18.4-percent credit

in 1993
- one child = 18.5-percent credit;
- two or more children = 19.5-percent credit

in 1994 and thereafter
- one child = 23-percent credit;
- two or more children = 25-percent credit

The 5 year cost of this increase in the EITC is $12.4 billion.

(b) Beginning with taxable year 1991, a portion of the EITC will be earmarked to provide a credit for the cost of health insurance that covers a child. The credit will be equal to 6 percent of earnings (but no more than actual cost). The projected maximum credit is $426 in 1991. The 5 year cost of the health insurance credit is $5.2 billion.

(c) Beginning with taxable year 1991, a family with a child under age 1 at the end of the taxable year will be eligible for a credit of 5 percent of earnings. The projected maximum credit is $355 in 1991. The 5 year cost of the credit is $0.7 billion. A family that receives this credit is not eligible to receive the dependent care tax credit.

2. Grants to States for child care under title IV of the Social Security Act

Funding for the existing title IV child care program will be increased to provide $300 million a year for each of fiscal years 1991-1995 to enable States to provide child care to low-income non-AFDC families that the State determines: (1) need such care in order to work; and (2) would otherwise be at risk of becoming dependent upon Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC).

Capped entitlement funds are allocated on the basis of child population. Rules relating to Federal matching rates and fee schedules are the same as in current law. All child care providers that receive funds under this provision (excluding individuals who provide care solely to members of their family) must be licensed, regulated, or registered with the State.

The $35 million currently authorized for grants to improve licensing and registration requirements and procedures, and to monitor child care provided to children of AFDC recipients, will be increased to $50 million for fiscal years 1992-1994. One-half of these funds are earmarked for training child care providers. The remainder must be used for improving licensing and registration requirements and procedures, and for enforcement. Activities under the grant apply to all children receiving services under title IV-A, not just those receiving AFDC benefits.

B. CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT

1. Extension of IRS intercept for non-AFDC families

An expiring provision under which IRS withholds past-due child support owed by a non-custodial parent on behalf of a minor (non-AFDC) child from Federal tax refunds is made permanent. (The authority for IRS withholding is already permanent as it applies to AFDC families.) This mechanism is also made available with respect to a non-minor child who is disabled, and to spousal support when spousal and child support are included in the same support order.

2. Extension of Interstate Child Support Commission

The Interstate Child Support Commission (established under the Family Support Act of 1988) is scheduled to expire in July of 1991. This provision extends the Commission--which was appointed late--for an additional year, and gives the Commission authority to hire its own staff.

3. Child support demonstration

The State of Texas will be allowed to waive certain requirements of the Social Security Act in order to continue an ongoing project in Bexar County on delinquency monitoring for child support enforcement. The State must conduct a study of the cost-effectiveness of this project to the Federal Government and to the State.

C. UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

1. Extension and modification of the "Reed Act"

The "Reed Act" (due to expire July 1, 1991) will be made permanent, extending the authority States now have to use funds that eventually overflow the Federal accounts of the unemployment trust fund for administrative purposes or benefits. In addition, the distribution formula will be modified so that any overflow will be distributed to the State accounts in the unemployment trust fund in proportion to each State's share of wages subject to Federal unemployment taxes paid in the prior calendar year instead of State taxable wages.

D. SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME (SSI)

1. Treatment of victims' compensation payments

If an individual who is a victim of crime receives payment from a victims' compensation fund, those payments will not be counted as income for purposes of determining the eligibility and benefit amount of the individual. Any amount that represents compensation for expenses incurred or losses suffered as the result of a crime are excluded from resources for the 9 month period beginning after the month of receipt.

2. Work incentives

These amendments to the SSI statute are designed to remove disincentives to employment for disabled SSI recipients. They allow disabled recipients to continue to participate in a special work incentive provision ("sec. 1619") even after they reach age 65; they expand the provision under which benefits are not reduced because of earnings that are needed to pay for impairment-related work work expenses (the expansion applies this rule for initial eligibility and also requires States to apply it for purposes of State supplements to SSI); and they treat certain royalties and honoraria as earned income. (Unearned income causes a dollar-for-dollar reduction in benefits. Earned income is partly disregarded. This provision applies the more favorable treatment to certain royalties and honoraria which are based on an individual's personal efforts.)

3. State relocation assistance not counted as income or resources

As received in the form of State relocation assistance (payable, for example, when an individual is required to move because the government needs the land to build a highway) will not be counted as income in determining an individual's SSI eligibility or amount of benefits. In addition, State relocation assistance payments will be excluded from resources for a period of 9 months.

4. Evaluation of child's disability by pediatricians

This provision directs the Secretary to make reasonable efforts to ensure that a qualified pediatrician or other specialist in a field of medicine appropriate to the disability of a child will evaluate the child's disability for purposes of determining eligibility for SSI.

5. Reimbursement for vocational rehabilitation

This provision expands the existing law authority of the Secretary to pay for vocational rehabilitation of SSI recipients to also cover certain near-recipients: those in special SSI status or getting State supplementary benefits only.

6. Presumptive eligibility time period

Under current law, the Social Security Administration may presume eligibility for up to three months while processing applications for SSI on the basis of disability or blindness. The provision extends the period of presumptive eligibility to six months.

7. Continuing disability and blindness reviews

Under this provision, SSA may conduct continuing disability reviews for individuals receiving sec. 1619 "special status" benefits no more often than once every 12 months.

8. Concurrent applications for SSI and food stamps

The 1986 Drug Abuse Act directed the Department of Health and Human Services and the Department of Agriculture to take a single application for SSI and food stamps from institutionalized individuals who are about to be released. That act requires a single application form. This provision gives the administration the option of using a single form or two separate forms in taking a joint application.

E. AID TO FAMILIES WITH DEPENDENT CHILDREN

1. State option to require monthly reporting and retrospective budgeting

Under current law, States are required to use a benefit computation system in which benefits are based on the prior month's income, and monthly reports are required. This requirement applies only to families with earned income. The provision gives States the option of specifying which categories of families, if any, will be subject to this "retrospective" accounting procedure. In addition, States will have the option of deciding from which categories of families, if any, monthly income reports will be required.

2. Treatment of foster care maintenance payments and adoption assistance

Foster care maintenance and adoption assistance payments which are paid out of State or local funds will be excluded in determining AFDC benefits.

3. Repatriation

This provision temporarily removes the limit on HHS funding to assist repatriated U.S. citizens and authorizes the acceptance of gifts for this purpose. This legislation was requested by the administration to deal with this aspect of the Kuwait crisis.

4. Moratorium on emergency assistance regulations

The moratorium on issuance of any final regulations by HHS with respect to the title IV-A emergency assistance program will be extended for 1 year.

5. Technical and miscellaneous minor amendments

The act includes a number of technical provisions designed to correct drafting errors and other minor problems in the AFDC statute relating to: elimination of the term "legal guardian," reporting of child abuse and neglect, use of AFDC information, good cause exceptions, JOBS program drafting errors, definition of "quarter of work" for purposes of the unemployed parent program, a study by the General Accounting Office of JOBS program funding for Indian tribes, Minnesota Family Investment Plan technical corrections, and clarification of the Children's Commission final reporting date as Mar. 1, 1991.

F. CHILD WELFARE AND FOSTER CARE

1. Accounting for administrative costs

The provision makes clear that "child placement services" are activities for which States are entitled to receive Federal reimbursement under the title IV-E foster care program. The provision does not change the type of activities for which States are currently allowed to claim Federal reimbursement as an administrative cost under title IV-E.

2. Section 427 triennial reviews

The current prohibition on penalizing States for failure to pass sec. 427 triennial reviews (designed to make sure States provide required child protections) will be extended for 1 year. HHS is currently studying its requirements, and is expected to propose changes within the near future.

3. Independent living to age 21 at State option

States will be allowed to provide independent living services to youths up to age 21, rather than age 18, as under current law. These services are designed to help foster care youths learn to live independently.

IV. TRADE PROVISIONS

The act extends the Customs user fee provisions recently enacted in the Customs and Trade Act of 1990 for 4 years, through Sept. 30, 1995, with certain modifications, including an authorization for the Secretary of the Treasury to adjust the fee periodically under prescribed conditions and procedures. The agreement also makes a number of technical corrections to other provisions in the Customs and Trade Act of 1990.

V. REVENUE PROVISIONS

1. Provisions affecting individuals

For tax years beginning before Jan. 1, 1991, the top marginal rate for individuals was 28 percent. However, the gradual elimination (the "phaseout") of certain tax benefits for high income taxpayers produced a top 33-percent marginal rate (often called the "bubble") for certain taxpayers. The act makes the following modifications:

(a) The 33-percent bubble of present law is eliminated for years after 1990. Under the act, the top statutory marginal rate is 31 percent. The 31-percent marginal rate begins at the income level where the 33-percent rate bubble began under prior law. All taxpayers with income at or above this point are subject to the 31-percent rate on that income.

(b) The act provides that the dependency exemptions of high income taxpayers are phased out. (The dependency exemption in 1991 is a $2,150 deduction for the taxpayer, the taxpayer's spouse, and each of the taxpayer's dependents). The phaseout in 1991 is effective for married couples with adjusted gross income between $150,000 and $272,500; and for single individuals with adjusted gross income between $100,000 and $222,500. This phaseout effectively raises the taxpayer's marginal rate by 0.5 percent for every dependency exemption claimed. For income above the phaseout range, the taxpayer's marginal rate is 31 percent.

(c) The act provides, for years after 1990, that a taxpayer's itemized deductions are reduced by 3 percent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income in excess of $100,000. The $100,000 threshold is the same for married and single taxpayers.

In addition, the act increases the cap on wages subject to the Medicare hospital insurance (HI) tax. Under the act the cap equals $125,000 for 1991. As under prior law, the $125,000 cap is indexed for growth in wages. The act does not affect the cap on wages for Social Security payroll taxes other than the HI tax. The HI tax equals 1.45 percent on wages up to the cap, payable by both the employer and employee (for a total 2.9 percent). Both the employer and employee's share is applicable to wages up to $125,000.

2. Excise taxes

The act establishes an excise tax on luxury items generally equal to 10 percent of: (i) the price of certain passenger vehicles exceeding $30,000, (ii) the price of certain aircraft, (iii) boats to the extent the price exceeds $100,000, and (iv) jewelry and furs to the extent the price exceeds $10,000. In addition, OBRA 1990 increases excise taxes on distilled spirits, wine and beer, and tobacco products. Further, the act increases certain other excise taxes, including excise taxes on highway and motor boat fuels, and certain aviation taxes.

3. Provisions affecting businesses

The act contains a series of business tax provisions, including provisions to: (i) require the accrual of redemption premium of certain preferred stock, (ii) expand the definition of a corporate equity reduction transaction (CERT) to include the acquisition of 50 percent or more of the stock of any corporation regardless of whether the corporation was a member of an affiliated group (unless an election under sec. 338 was made to treat the acquisition as an acquisition of assets), (iii) impose corporate tax on divisive transactions in connection with certain changes of ownership, provided that a shareholder's 50 percent ownership is attributable to stock the shareholder acquired directly or indirectly in a purchase or certain similar transactions within the previous 5 years, (iv) modify the treatment of certain debt-for-debt exchanges and stock-for-debt exchanges, (v) expand and clarify reporting and allocation rules for certain asset acquisitions, and (vi) increase the rate of interest payable on large corporate underpayments.

In addition, the act contains a provision requiring the amortization of policy acquisition expenses of insurance companies, and a provision reducing the deduction allowed to property and casualty insurance companies for losses incurred, both paid and unpaid, by estimated recoveries of salvage and subrogation claims attributable to such losses.

The act also provided several energy incentives, including extension of the credit for nonconventional fuels, a tax credit for costs attributable to enhanced oil recovery projects and qualified exploratory costs, and certain relief from the alternative minimum tax for oil and gas operations.

4. Foreign and compliance related provisions

The act includes provisions: (i) enhancing information and reporting under sec. 6038A of the Internal Revenue Code, (ii) applying the provisions of sec. 6038A to certain foreign corporations conducting a trade or business in the United States and extending the application of such provisions, (iii) creating a limited suspension of the statute of limitations of corporations during proceedings to enforce certain summonses, (iv) modifying the accuracy-related penalty to more effectively apply to transfer price adjustments under sec. 482, and (v) clarifying that certain disclosure is permitted by the Internal Revenue Service to persons providing services to the IRS, such as expert witnesses.

5. Extension of expiring provisions

The act extends several provisions until Dec. 31, 1991. These provisions otherwise would have expired on Sept. 30, 1990. These provisions include the allocation of research and experimental expenditures, the research and development credit, employer-provided educational assistance, group legal service plans, the targeted jobs tax credit, the low-income housing credit, the qualified mortgage bond program, the qualified small issue bond program, and other rules.

H.J.Res. 280; Public Law 101-140; app. Nov. 8, 1989.

H.J.Res. 280, increasing the statutory limit on the public debt, passed the House on May 17, 1989. The resolution was reported to the Senate on July 25, 1989 (amended with no written report). On Nov. 7, 1989 the Senate passed the resolution (amended). The President signed H.J.Res. 280 into law on Nov. 8, 1989, as Public Law 101-140.

H.J.Res. 280 provides an increase in the public debt limit to $3,122,700,000,000.

Title II of the act amends the Internal Revenue Code to repeal provisions that established nondiscrimination requirements (sec. 89) for coverage and benefits under certain employee benefit plans. The act restores prior law governing such requirements, with technical modifications relating to treatment as separate lines of business or operating units; and dependent care assistance programs.

Title III of the act sets forth provisions to assure that government trust funds do not suffer any interest losses because of a delay in raising the public debt limit.

H.J.Res. 363 (Mr. Rostenkowski with cosponsors); Public Law 101-77; app. Aug. 11, 1989.

H.J.Res. 363, to designate 1989 as "The United States Customs Service 200th Anniversary Year" and to authorize the President to issue a proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to observe the year with appropriate ceremonies and activities, was jointly referred to the Committees on Post Office and Civil Service and Ways and Means on July 13, 1989. The committees were discharged from further consideration on July 19, 1989, and on that same day the resolution passed the House. The Senate passed the resolution on July 27, 1989.

The President signed H.J.Res. 363 into law on Aug. 11, 1989, as Public Law 101-77.

H.J.Res. 647 (Mr. Solomon with cosponsors); passed House Oct. 18, 1990.

H.J.Res. 647, disapproving the recommendation of the President to extend nondiscriminatory (most-favored-nation) treatment to the products of the People's Republic of China, was reported without recommendation by the Committee on Ways and Means on Oct. 1, 1990. The House passed the resolution on Oct. 18, 1990. No action was taken in the Senate. A summary of the Committee on Ways and Means provisions as approved by the House follows.

Title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 (the so-called Jackson-Vanik amendment) authorizes the President to waive the freedom of emigration requirements of that title and grant MFN status to a nonmarket economy country, if he determines that so doing will substantially promote the objectives of freedom of emigration.

On May 24, 1990, the President notified the Congress of his intention to waive the Jackson-Vanik freedom of emigration requirements and extend MFN trade treatment to the products of China for an additional year, beginning July 4, 1990.

Because of constitutional questions surrounding the procedures for congressional disapproval of Presidential waivers, Congress recently passed, and the President signed, amendments to title IV (Public Law 101-382, Aug. 20, 1990). A special transition rule was provided in that law for congressional consideration in 1990 of resolutions disapproving extension of the Jackson-Vanik waiver authority through July 3, 1991. Under this provision, Congress has 60 calendar days following the August 20 date of enactment of the transition rule to enact a joint resolution of disapproval introduced on or after that same date. H.J.Res. 647 was introduced by Representative Solomon, Representative Schulze, and others on Sept. 5, 1990, pursuant to the procedures established by the amendments to title IV.

As of adjournment of the 101st Congress, H.J.Res. 647 was pending on the Senate calendar.

H.J.Res. 649 (Mr. Gephardt with cosponsor); Public Law 101-541; app. Nov. 8, 1990.

H.J.Res. 649, approving the extension of nondiscriminatory, most-favored-nation (MFN) treatment to the products of Czechoslovakia, was reported favorably by the Committee on Ways and Means on Oct. 1, 1990. The House agreed to the resolution on Oct. 17, 1990; the Senate on Oct. 24, 1990. The President signed H.J.Res. 649 into law on Nov. 8, 1990, as Public Law 101-541. A summary of the Committee on Ways and Means provisions of the act follows.

On Sept. 6, 1990, the President submitted to the Congress the "Agreement on Trade Relations Between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of the Czechoslovak Federative Republic", including exchanges of letters which form an integral part of the agreement. The agreement had been signed by representatives of the two governments on Apr. 12, 1990.

Under title IV of the Trade Act of 1974 as amended, a trade agreement with a nonmarket economy country and the Presidential proclamation granting nondiscriminatory, most-favored-nation (MFN) status shall take effect only after enactment of a joint resolution of approval. H.J.Res. 649, introduced on Sept. 10, 1990, by House Majority Leader Gephardt and Minority Leader Michel, approves the extension of nondiscriminatory MFN treatment to the products of Czechoslovakia.

H.J.Res. 660 (Mr. Whitten); House sustained Presidential Veto Oct. 6, 1990.

H.J.Res. 660, making further continuing appropriations for fiscal year 1991, and for other purposes, passed in the House and was adopted in the Senate by unanimous consent on Oct. 5, 1990. This resolution would have extended the temporary increase in the public debt limit from Oct. 6, 1990, until Oct. 12, 1990. The President vetoed H.J.Res. 660 on Oct. 6, 1990. The House sustained the President's veto on Oct. 6, 1990.

H.J.Res. 666 (Mr. Whitten); Public Law 101-412; app. Oct. 9, 1990.

H.J.Res. 666, making further continuing appropriations for fiscal year 1991, and for other purposes, passed (amended) in the House on Oct. 8, 1990. The resolution was passed (amended) by the Senate on Oct. 9, 1990, and the House agreed to the Senate amendments by unanimous consent. The President signed H.J.Res. 666 into law on Oct. 9, 1990, as Public Law 101-412.

Sec. 114 of H.J.Res. 666 provides for an extension of the temporary increase in the public debt limit from Oct. 6, 1990, until Oct. 19, 1990.

H.J.Res. 677 (Mr. Whitten); Public Law 101-444; app. Oct. 19, 1990.

H.J.Res. 677, making further continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1991, and for other purposes, passed in the House on Oct. 18, 1990, and in the Senate on Oct. 19, 1990. The President signed H.J.Res. 677 into law on Oct. 19, 1990, as Public Law 101-444.

Sec. 114 of H.J.Res. 677 provides for an extension of the temporary increase in the public debt limit from Oct. 19, 1990, until Oct. 24, 1990.

H.J.Res. 681 (Mr. Whitten); Public Law 101-461; app. Oct. 25, 1990.

H.J.Res. 681, making further continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1991, and for other purposes, was adopted by the House and Senate on Oct. 24, 1990. The President signed H.J.Res. 681 into law on Oct. 25, 1990, as Public Law 101-461.

Sec. 114 of H.J.Res. 681 provides for an extension of the temporary increase in the public debt limit from Oct. 24, 1990, until Oct. 27, 1990.

H.J.Res. 687 (Mr. Whitten); Public Law 101-467; app. Oct. 28, 1990.

H.J.Res. 687, making continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1991, and for other purposes, was adopted by the House and Senate on Oct. 27, 1990. The President signed H.J.Res. 687 into law on Oct. 28, 1990, as Public Law 101-467.

Sec. 106 of H.J.Res. 687 provides for a temporary increase in the public debt limit to $3,230 billion through Nov. 5, 1990. The increase became effective upon enactment.

H.Con.Res. 241 (Mr. Archer); app. Nov. 22, 1989. (See also H.R. 3607.)

H.Con.Res. 241, to correct technical errors in the enrollment of the bill, H.R. 3607, the Catastrophic Coverage Repeal Act of 1989, was introduced in the House on Nov. 22, 1989 and referred to the Committees on House Administration, Energy and Commerce, and Ways and Means which subsequently discharged the resolution by unanimous consent for House consideration; the House passed H.Con.Res. 241 that same day. The Senate also agreed to the resolution on Nov. 22, 1989. No further action is required.

H.Res. 146 (Mr. Matsui with cosponsors); passed House June 6, 1989.

H.Res. 146, relating to the United States-Japan semiconductor antidumping agreement, was reported by the Committee on Ways and Means on May 24, 1989. The resolution expresses the sense of the House that Japan has not lived up to the terms of the 1986 United States-Japan semiconductor agreement; calls on the President and the U.S. Trade Representative to take all measures necessary to secure compliance with the agreement. On June 6, 1989, H.Res. 146 passed the House. No further action is required.

H.Res. 177 (Mr. Rostenkowski); passed House June 15, 1989. (Returning to the Senate S. 774.) (See also H.R. 1278.)

On Apr. 19, 1989, the Senate passed S. 774, the Financial Institution Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989. This legislation would create two corporations to administer the financial assistance under the bill: the Resolution Trust Corporation and the Resolution Financing Corporation. S. 774 confers tax exempt status to these two corporations. Without these two tax provisions, these two corporations would be taxable entities under the Federal income tax.

On June 15, 1989, Mr. Rostenkowski sent to the Speaker's desk H.Res. 177, a privileged resolution. The resolution states that S. 774 is, in the opinion of the House, a revenue measure which contravenes clause 1, sec. 7 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States and is an infringement of the privileges of the House. No further action is required.

H.Res. 257 (Mr. Gibbons with cosponsors); passed House Oct. 23, 1989.

H.Res. 257, denouncing the adoption by the European Community of a restrictive broadcasting directive was reported (amended) to the House by the Committee on Ways and Means on Oct. 17, 1989. The resolution passed the House (amended) on Oct. 23, 1989. No further action is required. A summary of the resolution as passed by the House follows.

The resolution calls attention to the inclusion in the European Community (EC) Council of Ministers broadcasting directive of a local content requirement, in the form of both a quota and a minimum floor for works of European origin, and denounces its adoption as trade restrictive and in violation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). Article I of the GATT relating to most-favored-nation treatment and Article III relating to national treatment are identified as the relevant portions of the GATT which are violated by the local content requirement.

The resolution further notes that the adoption of this restrictive and discriminatory directive is inconsistent with claims by EC officials that the "EC 1992" program is not a program of protectionism and will not deny market access to non-European entities. The resolution expresses the House's regret that the EC action will have adverse consequences on the U.S.-EC bilateral relationship as well as multilateral efforts under way in the Uruguay Round of GATT negotiations.

Under the resolution, the House strongly urges the President and the U.S. Trade Representative to take all appropriate and feasible action under its authority, including possible action under sec. 301 of the Trade Act of 1974, to protect and maintain U.S. access to the EC broadcasting market. The U.S. Trade Representative is requested to consult regularly with the Committee on Ways and Means on the status of the dispute and any action which it is considering with respect to the dispute.

The technical amendment corrects the date on which the EC Council of Ministers approved the directive.

H.Res. 287 (Mr. Cardin); passed House Nov. 9, 1989. (Returning to the Senate S. 686.) (See also H.R. 3299.)

On Aug. 4, 1989, the Senate passed S. 686, the Oil Pollution Liability and Compensation Act of 1989. Sec. 401(b)(1) of S. 686 transfers the assets of the Trans-Alaska Pipeline liability fund (TAPS) to the oilspill liability trust fund. Sec. 401(b)(2) of S. 686 provides for a credit against the oilspill liability trust fund tax—a Federal tax imposed by the Internal Revenue Code—for those oil companies which have contributed to the TAPS fund. Accordingly, the credit established by S. 686 is a tax measure which has not originated in the House.

On Nov. 9, 1989, Mr. Cardin sent to the Speaker's desk H.Res. 287, a privileged resolution. The resolution states that S. 686 is, in the opinion of the House, a revenue measure which contravenes clause 1, sec. 7 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States and is an infringement of the privileges of the House. No further action is required.

S. 358 (Mr. Kennedy with cosponsors); Public Law 101-649; app. Nov. 29, 1990. (See also H.R. 4300.)

S. 358, the Immigration Act of 1989, was introduced and referred on Feb. 7, 1989, to the Senate Judiciary Committee and reported (amended) to the Senate on June 19, 1989. The Senate passed the bill (amended) on July 13, 1989. The House passed the bill (amended) on Oct. 3, 1990, incorporating H.R. 4300 into this measure as an amendment. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees. The conference report was filed on Oct. 26, 1990. The Senate agreed to the conference report on Oct. 26, 1990; the House agreed to the conference report on Oct. 27, 1990. The President signed S. 358 into law on Nov. 29, 1990, as Public Law 101-649.

See H.R. 4300 for a description of certain provisions within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means. In addition, sec. 110 of S. 358 prohibited the payment of a direct Federal benefit to any person not lawfully present in the United States. This provision was dropped in conference.

The conferees considered a provision, not included in either H.R. 4300 or S. 358, which would have established a pilot drivers license program in 3 States. States participating in the pilot program would reissue driver's licenses to include an individual's name, Social Security number and fingerprint.

The conferees agreed to the pilot program but deleted all references to the Social Security number and the Social Security Administration. In addition, the conferees directed that report language should state that no Federal data bases could be used to implement the program.

The House defeated the rule to the conference report and the pilot program was removed.

S. 566 (Mr. Cranston with cosponsors); Public Law 101-625; app. Nov. 28, 1990.

S. 566, the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act, was introduced and referred on Mar. 15, 1989 to the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs and reported (amended) to the Senate on June 8, 1990. The Senate passed the bill (amended) on June 27, 1990. The House passed the bill (amended) Aug. 1, 1990 incorporating H.R. 1180 in this measure as an amendment. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees with regard to a provision in the Senate measure that would have established a tax and housing coordinated council. This provision was dropped by the conference. The conference report was filed Oct. 22, 1990. The conference report passed the House Oct. 25, 1990; the Senate passed the conference report on Oct. 27, 1990. The President signed S. 566 into law on Nov. 28, 1990, as Public Law 101-625.

S. 1630 (Mr. Baucus with cosponsors); Public Law 101-549; Nov. 15, 1990. (See also H.R. 3030.)

S. 1630, the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, was introduced and referred to the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works on Sept. 14, 1989, and reported (amended) to the Senate on Dec. 20, 1989. The Senate passed the bill (amended) on Apr. 3, 1990. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees. The conference report was filed on May 26, 1990. The House passed the conference report on Oct. 26, 1990; the Senate on Oct. 27, 1990. The President signed S. 1630 into law on Nov. 15, 1990, as Public Law 101-549.

See H.R. 3030 for a description of the provisions within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means.

S. 2830 (Mr. Leahy); Public Law 101-624; Nov. 28, 1990. (See also H.R. 3950.)

S. 2830, the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990, was reported as an original measure by the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry on July 6, 1990. The Senate passed the bill (amended) on July 27, 1990. The House passed the bill (amended) on Aug. 4, 1990, incorporating H.R. 3950 in this measure as an amendment. The Speaker appointed members of the Committee on Ways and Means as conferees. The conference report was filed on Oct. 22, 1990. The conference report was approved in the House on Oct. 23, 1990; in the Senate on Oct. 25, 1990. The President signed S. 2830 into law on Nov. 28, 1990, as Public Law 101-624.

The Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990, commonly referred to as the 1990 farm bill, generally provided for the reauthorization of commodity price support programs, agricultural trade programs, and related conservation and food programs. Sections of the bill within the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means concerned either agricultural trade issues or the use of Social Security numbers.

S. 2830, as passed by the Senate, included the following provisions under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means: distortions to world sugar trade (sec. 902); various export promotion and trade policy provisions (sec. 1221); annual reports on trade practices (sec. 1122); durum wheat study (sec. 1124); alfalfa seed study (sec. 1125); GATT Uruguay Round negotiating objectives (sec. 1134); rebalancing proposal of the European Community (sec. 1137); Iraqi oil import study (sec. 2306); commodity research and promotion programs for honey (sec. 2188), pecans (sec. 2140), mushrooms (sec. 2155), potatoes (sec. 2178), cotton (sec. 2123); marketing orders (secs. 1721 and 1730(A)); country-of-origin labelling report (sec. 1716(c)); and use of Social Security numbers for crop insurance (sec. 2203) and the food stamp program (secs. 2452 and 2454).

S. 2830, as passed by the House, included the following provisions under the jurisdiction of the Committee on Ways and Means: certain amendments to export programs designed to respond to unfair trade practices (sec. 1221); authorization of a market development task force (sec. 1223(i)); a study of the effects of a North American free trade area (sec. 1241); a study relating to roses and fresh cut flowers (sec. 1243); a study relating to red tart cherry competition (sec. 1245); a reporting requirement concerning the operation of sec. 22 import restrictions (sec. 1246); and a sense-of-Congress provision relating to the European Community's harmonization of standards (sec. 1247). In addition, amendments to various commodity research and promotion programs ("checkoffs") affected the committee's jurisdiction insofar as the amendments required imposing an assessment on imports. These amendments included honey (sec. 614); pecans (sec. 1428); mushrooms (sec. 1445); potatoes (sec. 1468); cotton (sec. 1475); limes (sec. 1485); and a generic amendment added by the committee relating to international obligations (sec. 1494).

In conference, the Senate provision relating to distortions in world sugar trade was dropped. The House versions of amendments to export programs relating to unfair trade practices were generally adopted over the corresponding Senate versions (sec. 1531 of conference agreement), while Senate provisions which were mainly restatements of existing law were retained (sec. 1531 and 1532). The House provision to establish a market development task force was dropped entirely. The Senate provisions to require studies of durum wheat imports and alfalfa seed imports from Canada were both dropped. The House provision for a study of red tart cherry competition was dropped. The House provision for a study of the effect on U.S. agriculture of a North American free trade area was adopted with a change to require submission of the report to Congress not later than Mar. 31, 1991, rather than May 31, 1991 (sec. 1551). The House provision study of the impact of consignment sales of foreign roses and fresh cut flowers on the domestic industry was adopted by the conferees (sec. 1552). Congress also adopted the House provision requiring the Secretary of Agriculture to report to the Congress on the effects of any repeal of, or suspension of measures proclaimed under, sec. 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act before such repeal or suspension takes effect (sec. 1554). The House provision expressing congressional concern over the standards and testing policies of the European Community was retained (sec. 1555) and the Senate provision expressing concern over the European Community's rebalancing proposal in the Uruguay Round negotiations was adopted with a change to make it a sense-of-Congress provision rather than simply sense of the Senate (sec. 1559). The Senate provision concerning the objectives and conduct of the agricultural trade negotiations in the Uruguay Round was adopted after a change to make it a sense-of-the-Senate resolution, rather than sense of the Congress (sec. 1560). The Senate provision on oil imports from Iraq was dropped.

In the area of commodity research and promotion program amendments ("checkoffs"), there were little if any differences between the House and Senate provisions on honey assessments (sec. 1984), pecan assessments (sec. 1912), mushroom assessments (sec. 1925), and potato assessments (sec. 1942) as they related to Committee on Ways and Means jurisdiction. The House provision on lime assessments (sec. 1955) was also adopted. The House provisions on cotton assessments were adopted with an amendment to expand the definition of "cotton" to include the upland cotton content of products derived from upland cotton (secs. 1992, 1997). In addition, report language was included in the Statement of Managers addressing concerns of the Committee on Ways and Means conferees about the application and administration of the cotton assessment to cotton textile imports (see pages 1154-1156 of the conference report, H.Rept. 101-916). The House provision concerning the consistency of any commodity research and promotion program with U.S. international obligations was amended by the conferees to require the Secretary to consult with the U.S. Trade Representative (USTR) prior to the promulgation of, or amendment to, any checkoff program that applies to imports. The conference substitute also requires the Secretary to take all steps necessary and appropriate to ensure that any checkoff program as it relates to imports is nondiscriminatory and in compliance with U.S. international obligations (sec. 1999T).

The Senate provision requiring a comprehensive study of all existing Federal country-of-origin food labeling requirements was not included in the conference agreement. The two Senate amendments to sec. 8e of the Agricultural Adjustment Act relating to marketing orders were adopted with additional changes by the conferees. The Senate amendments to add kiwifruit, nectarines, plums, pistachios, and apples to the list of imported commodities potentially subject to marketing order restrictions was adopted, but papayas were dropped from the amendment (sec. 1307). The Senate amendment to require the notification and response of USTR prior to implementation of marketing order restrictions on imports was modified by the conferees to require USTR to provide advice within 60 days of notification and to allow the Secretary to implement restrictions on imports only after receiving the advice and concurrence of USTR (sec. 1308).

Secs. 2202 and 2452 included provisions to require the use of Social Security numbers for certain individuals participating in the crop insurance and food stamp programs. The conferees agreed to the Committee on Ways and Means' proposals to safeguard the privacy of participating individuals by restricting the agencies' use of the Social Security number.
